INDIA-PAKISTAN - 1

MODULE - 15

INDIA - PAKISTAN

India-Pakistan Bilateral relations can be divided into-

1. COLONIAL RELATIONS
2. MILESTONES IN POST-INDEPENDENCE
3. CONTEMPORARY RELATIONS

COLONIAL PERIOD

WRONGDOINGS OF BRITISH

1 PM Vajpayee said - 'You can change your friends, but not your neighbours'. This saying best defines Indo- Pak relations.

2 These two countries began their journey together with the end of colonial rule and Partition of British India.

3 Modern relations between India and Pakistan started after 1947.

4 Hatred for India has been cultivated for long among Pakistani citizens and the military rulers desire to be equal to India

5 According to the Indian Independence Act of 1947, British India was partitioned into India and Pakistan and power was transferred to the respective governments.

COLONIAL PERIOD

WRONGDOINGS OF BRITISH

- 6 The boundary decision between the countries was hasty and unplanned
- 7 Because of absence of a Muslim majority area in British India, the partition placed India between East and West Pakistan.
- 8 Even after Partition, Muslims in India accounted for 12 percent of the population in 1951.
- 9 Effects of Partition having been haunting the relationship till date
- 10 Maharaja of Jammu signed the Instrument of Accession with India, making the state of J&K a bone of contention between India and Pakistan.
- 11 India and Pakistan fought wars to undo the wrongs of Partition.

INDIA-PAKISTAN

KASHMIR ISSUE & 1947 WAR

1 When the British transferred power, the fate of the Princely states was left to themselves. Pakistan naturally expected Kashmir, with its Muslim majority, to join it.

2 On 22 October, thousands of Pathans from Pakistan invaded J&K from north.

3 Muslims in Poonch district challenged Maharaja of Kashmir and hoisted the Pakistan flag

4 VP Menon flew to Jammu and got the Instrument of Accession signed from Maharaja.

5 On 1 January 1948, India took the Kashmir issue to the United Nations on the advise of Lord Mountbatten.

INDIA-PAKISTAN

KASHMIR ISSUE & 1947 WAR

6 UNSC altered the dispute from Jammu & Kashmir to Indo-Pak issue.

7 In 1947-48, neither India nor Pakistan managed to control the whole state of Jammu and Kashmir and it hurt both sides.

8 In February 1950, UNSC asked both countries to withdraw their armies from the state and thus both states stood at their positions. This became the Line of Control between India and Pakistan.

9 India regretted taking the matter to the UN.

INDIA-PAKISTAN

1965 WAR

- 1 In 1965, Pakistan President Ayub Khan began insurrection in the Indian part of Kashmir to annex Indian side of Kashmir or bring in international intervention through 'Operation Gibraltar'
- 2 Pakistan launched its reserve plan codenamed 'Operation Grand Slam' under which troops from Pakistan crossed the Jammu ceasefire line and entered Indian side using heavy artillery
- 3 On 1 September, Pakistan launched an armed offensive in Chambal- The battle took place in two fronts in the north-west- Kashmir and Punjab
- 4 On 23 September, 1965, UN declared a ceasefire ending the war between India and Pakistan.

INDIA-PAKISTAN

TASHKENT AGREEMENT

- The Prime Minister of India and the President of Pakistan met at Tashkent on January 10, 1966 and discussed relations between the two countries.
- The following was agreed upon-

- 1 Promote good neighbourly relations and resolve disputes peacefully.
- 2 Withdraw all armed personnel by 25 February, 1966 to the positions they held prior to 5 August, 1965
- 3 In India, people were disappointed with the agreement as it did not contain a 'No War' clause. Soon after 1965 India went on a war with Pakistan in 1971

INDIA-PAKISTAN

1971 WAR & CREATION OF BANGLADESH

- 1 East Pakistan contained parts of erstwhile Bengal and Assam, they opposed the imposition of Urdu language of West Pakistan.
- 2 When Pakistani army tried to suppress them, they took refuge in India
- 3 Pakistan was instigated with India's support and launched a war on eastern and western fronts against India
- 4 India responded and US and USSR intervened.
- 5 Pakistan surrendered in 1971 within 13 days and Bangladesh was created

INDIA-PAKISTAN

Events affecting relations:

1. SAARC and SAPTA
2. China-Pakistan-US axis
3. Iraq War
4. India-Israel relations
5. India-Afghanistan relations
6. Growth of Taliban

CONTEMPORARY RELATIONSHIP

An evaluation of the India-Pakistan bilateral relationship requires discussion of areas of contention and areas of cooperation.

The areas of contention can be categorised into

1. MILITARY CONFRONTATIONS
2. POLITICAL & STRATEGIC
3. GEOPOLITICS
4. INTERNATIONAL PLAYERS
5. ACTIVITIES OF NON-STATE ACTORS
6. ECONOMIC
7. RIVER WATER SHARING

MILITARY CONFRONTATIONS

i

INDO-PAK WARS

- 1 After the 1947 war, Pakistan occupied parts of Jammu and Kashmir. In 1950, the Line of Control was demarcated between India and Pakistan.
- 2 The 1965 war and the subsequent Tashkent Agreement was hoped to resolve the dispute between neighbours and improve relations. It, however, further strained them.
- 3 The 1971 war led to the independence of East Pakistan from West Pakistan and formation of Bangladesh.
- 4 India and Pakistan signed the Shimla Pact in 1972 as an attempt to restore relations between the neighbours.
- 5 It was an attempt to create long-standing peace in the subcontinent.

MILITARY CONFRONTATIONS

ii KARGIL WAR

1 Before the 1999 Kargil war, the Indian territory between Zojila and Leh at the Line of Control (LoC) was guarded poorly.

2 These sectors form the crucial backbone for the logistics requirements of the army from Zojila to Siachen.

3 Indian posts along these points of LoC were vacated before winter. The roads leading to these posts were either not motorable or non-existent.

4 Artillery guns were inadequate.

5 Surveillance by high-technology equipment such as Unmanned Aerial Vehicles were not there.

PAKISTAN'S MILITARY ADVENTURE

1 The Pakistan Army took advantage of these shortcomings, especially the lack of Indian troops during winter and intruded into Mushkoh, Dras, Kargil, Batalik and Turtuk sub-sectors, between Zojila and Leh.

2 Pakistan wanted to cut off the highway connecting Srinagar with Leh, thereby cutting off Ladakh and Siachen. India was not prepared for it.

3 Pervez Musharraf launched Operation Badr, to covertly occupy areas of the Indian side of the Line of Control in the Kargil area.

4 Locals informed about the intrusion to the Indian Army while they were out grazing their cattle.

INDIA'S RESPONSE

- 1 India undertook Operation Vijay in May 1999 and moved to Dras to evict the intruders on May 17.
- 2 On May 20, 1999, India recaptured Tololing, since it was close to the national highway.
- 3 PM Vajpayee had instructed the army to not cross the LoC, as it would be internationally perceived as expanding the conflict.
- 4 After the capture of Tololing, Tiger Hill was captured on July 3, 1999. The Pakistanis never expected this victory

INDIA'S RESPONSE

5 The war, which lasted for two months, caused heavier casualties to the Pakistani army than the Indian forces.

6 It brought considerable international pressure upon Pakistan, which eventually resulted in Islamabad to give up its position in Kargil.

7 Finally on July 26, the Indian Army recaptured all the Indian posts in Kargil that had been occupied by Pakistan's army.

8 Since then, July 26 has been observed as Kargil Vijay Diwas to commemorate the sacrifices made by soldiers in this war.

CORRECTIVE MEASURES

After the War, a Kargil Review Committee was formed, which the corrective measures taken after the war.

- 1 Measures have been taken to improve infrastructure in terms of roads, habitat and surveillance architecture.
- 2 The army's deployment strength has more than tripled
- 3 Posts are no longer vacated during winters.
- 4 Several helipads have been created near LoC to help the army with supply rounds and quick mobility of reserves.

AREAS OF CONTENTION

CORRECTIVE MEASURES

5 The army has also made new ammunition points and revised its ammunition reserves.

6 The army has adequate artillery guns in the region

7 Communication has improved with the laying of optical fibre cables and surveillance was heightened with more Unmanned Aerial Vehicles and satellite imagery.

8 The local intelligence network has been tightened, with an improved public interface.
