

MUST FOR EVERY STUDENT ... FOR ALL COMPETITIVE EXAMS

ENGLISH MADE SIMPLE!

LEARN WITH GVR SIR

MODULE - 22

Autonomy : Freedom from external control or influence / independence.

203

Autonomy : Right of an organization to be independent and govern itself.

203

Accountability : A situation in which someone is responsible for things that happen.

204

Example :
Democratically elected governments are accountable to the people.

Accountability : Someone is responsible for things that happen / can give a satisfactory reason for failure.

204

Example :
Whenever some accident takes place, Indian Railways should fix accountability at the higher official's level.

Ironically : A situation in which something, which was intended to have a particular result has the opposite or a very different result.

205

Example :
Lakshmi got through IIT JEE Examination, but the irony is that she failed in +2 examination.

Checks and balances : Rules intended to prevent one person or group from having too much power within an organization.

206

JUDICIARY

EXECUTIVE

LEGISLATURE

Far reaching : Having important and widely applicable effects or implications.

207

Example :
The newly proposed criminal laws must be deliberated thoroughly, as omissions will have far reaching consequences.

Far reaching : Likely to influence / affect many people or things.

207

Example :
If communal riots take place,
it will have far reaching consequences.

Supersede : To replace something, especially something older.

208

Example :

In India, in recent years, several of the old two-lane highways have been superseded by the four-lane highways / expressways.

Supersede : To replace something older, less effective, or less important.

208

Example :
Wireless broadband superseded the wired broadband.

Supersede : Process, system or product supersedes another.

208

Example :
The Internet seems to have superseded every other mode of communication ever invented!

Defensible : Able to be protected from attack / able to be supported by argument.

209

Example : High environmental taxes on coal are defensible on ecological grounds.

Defensible : Able to be protected from attack / able to be supported by argument.

209

Example :
The Government should be morally defensible for all its actions.

Claw back : Recovering money paid out in the form of allowances / benefits.

210

Example :
Several companies have in-built claw back provisions.

Claw back : To get the possession of something again with difficulty.

210

Example :
Air India, now under the management of Tata Group, is trying to claw back some of the business it lost in recent years.

Confront : To face, meet, or deal with a difficult situation or person.

211

Example :
When the Member of Parliament visited his constituency, he was confronted by angry crowds.

Confront : To deal with a difficult problem / situation.

211

Example :
Brazil, under the incumbent President Lula da Silva, is to confront the issue of deforestation in Amazon River basin.

Chaos : A state of total confusion with no order, complete disorder

212

Example :
When military takes over the reins of the Government, It may result in chaos.

Chaos : A state of total confusion with no order, complete disorder

212

Example :
Computer failure has created chaos in the sub-registrar office.

Be under a cloud : Not be trusted because people think that he has done something bad.

213

Example :
There are several Members of Parliament in India, who are under a cloud.

Be under a cloud : Not be trusted because people think that he has done something bad.

213

Example :
The Wagner Group is under a cloud for killing civilians in Ukraine.

Unease : Feeling of being worried about something.

214

Example :

Increase in the pink slips issued by the company created unease among the employees.

Unease : Feeling of being worried about something.

214

Example :
After the takeover by Elon Musk, there is unease among the employees of Twitter, presently named X.

Meddle : To have an influence on things that are not your responsibility, especially by criticizing in a damaging or annoying way.

215

Example :
One should not meddle with the things that one do not understand!

Meddle : To have an influence on things that are not your responsibility, especially by criticizing in a damaging or annoying way.

215

Example :
Radha always meddles in the affairs of other people, and she derives pleasure out of it.

Jury : A group of people who have been chosen to listen to all the facts in a trial in a law court and to decide, if a person is guilty or not guilty.

216

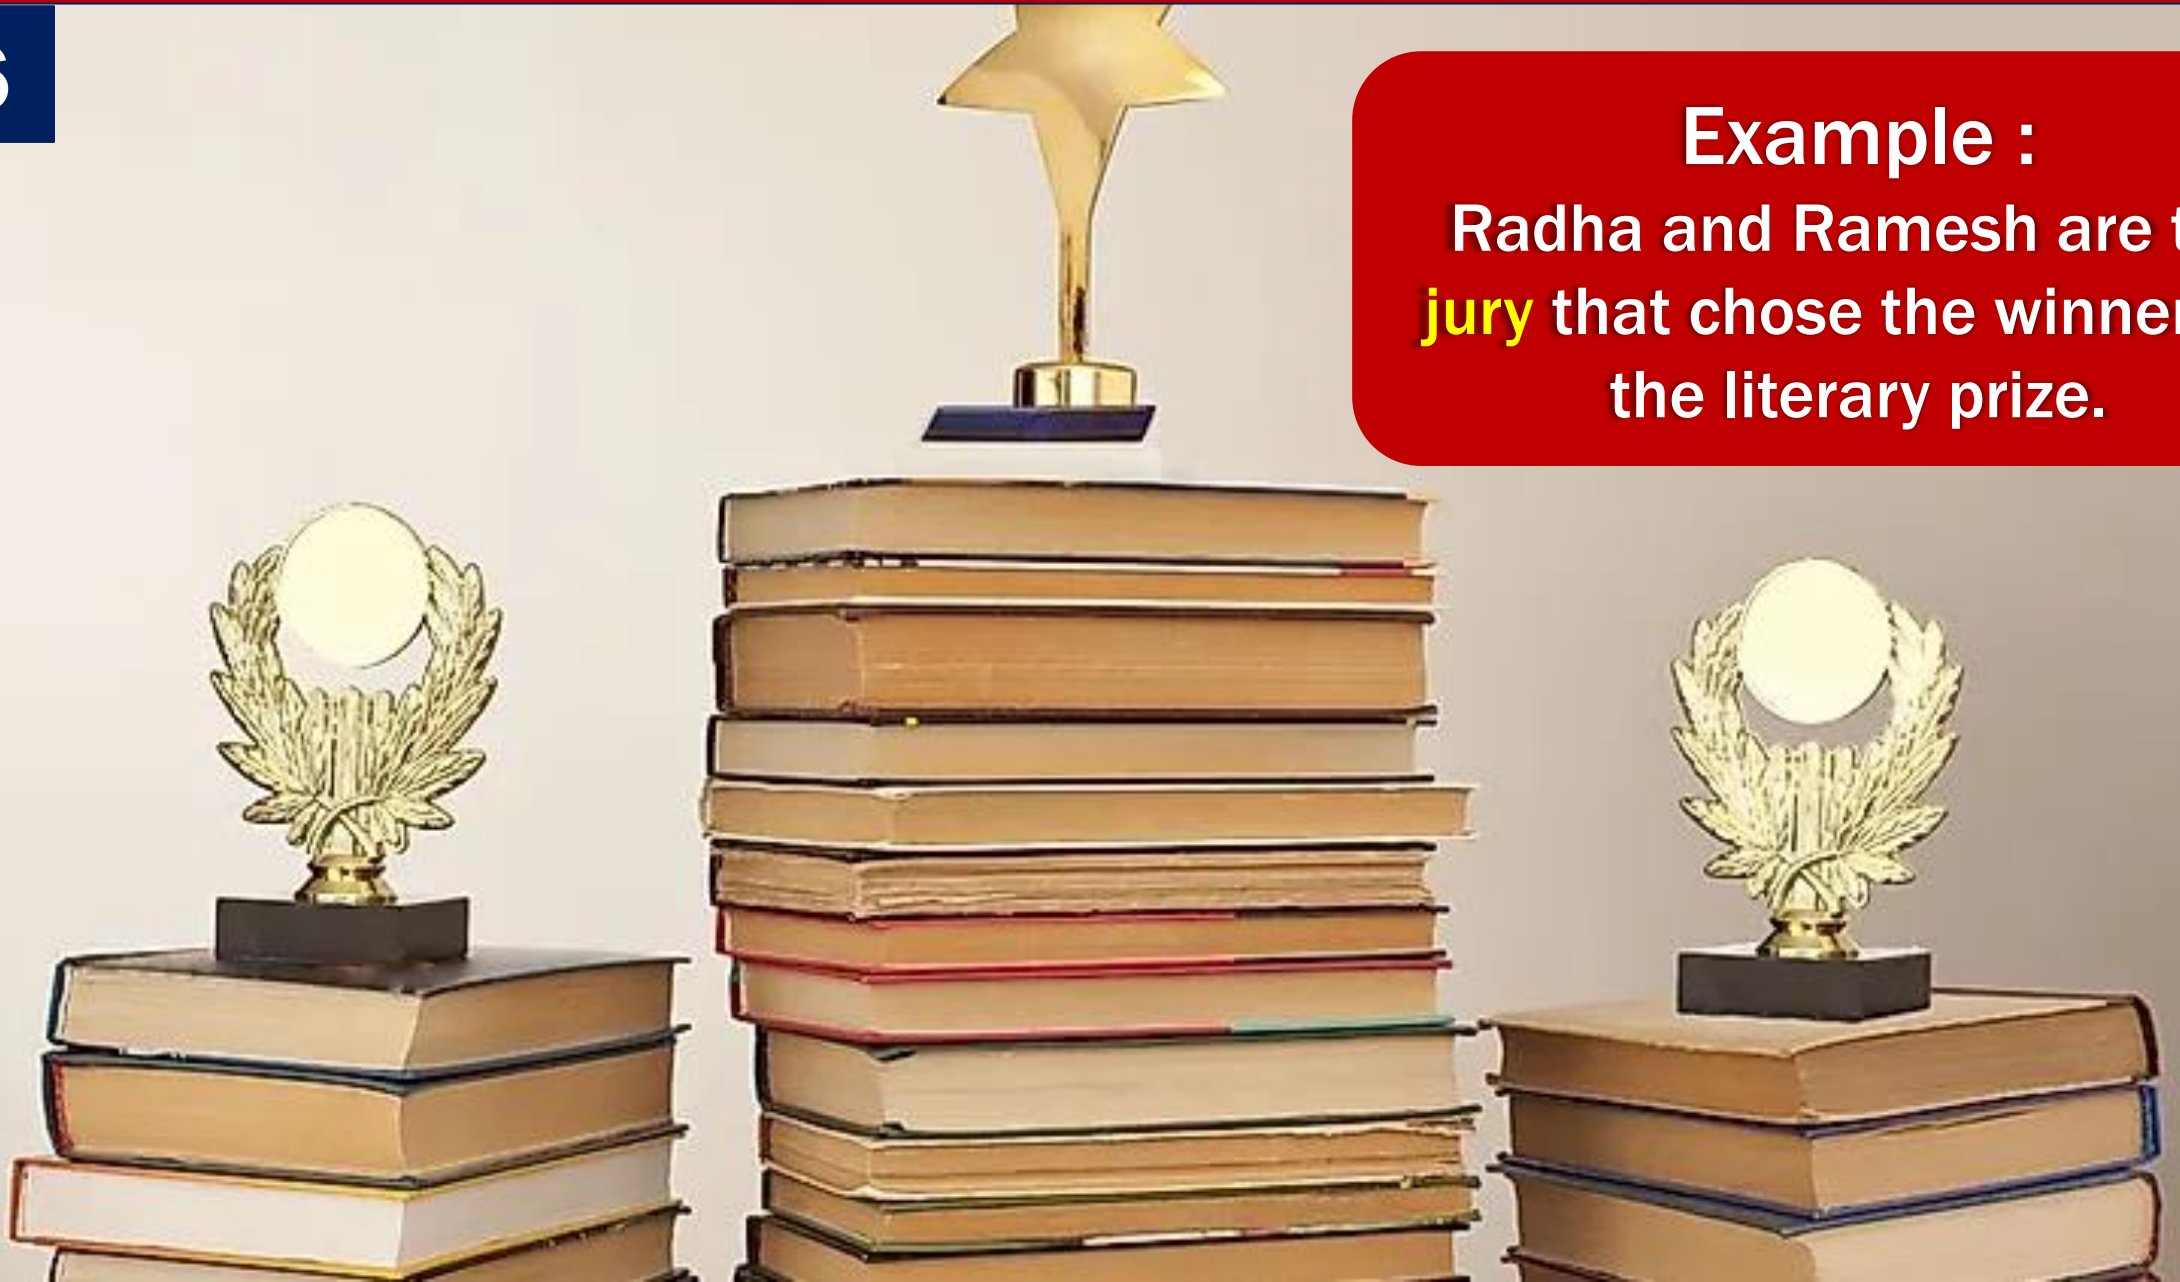

Example :
Police officers are not usually allowed to be on a jury.

Jury : Jury is also a group of people chosen to judge a competition.

216

Example :

Radha and Ramesh are the jury that chose the winner for the literary prize.

Rumble : To make a continuous low sound.

217

Example :
When someone is in fasting,
the stomach may rumble.

Rumble : To discover the true facts about someone or something secret, and often illegal.

217

TATA CONSULTANCY

Example :
Raju joined the software company with the fake certificate and his boss eventually rumbled him, and he was sacked.

Rumbling : Sign of anger / disagreement.

218

Example :
When the bonus was reduced drastically, there were rumblings among the workforce.

01-11-2023

Welcome assertion

Matters of defection should be taken out of the purview of the Speaker

It is a welcome sign of judicial assertion that the Supreme Court of India has fixed a deadline for the Maharashtra Assembly Speaker to adjudicate on petitions seeking the disqualification of members who had broken away from the leadership of the Shiv Sena and the Nationalist Congress Party (NCP). Long experience shows that Speakers tend to treat disqualification issues with great alacrity or supine indifference, depending on their political affiliations. Despite being reminded from time to time of their duty to remain neutral and demonstrate a sense of urgency in dealing with questions arising out of the Tenth Schedule of the Constitution, the anti-defection law, presiding officers appear to place political loyalties above their constitutional duty. It is quite fitting, therefore, that the apex court has asked Speaker Rahul Narwekar to decide the disqualification petitions against Chief Minister Eknath Shinde's camp by December 31 and those concerning the NCP's breakaway group headed by Deputy Chief Minister Ajit Pawar by January 31, 2024. The directions are a natural follow-up to the outcome of a Constitution Bench decision on May 11, 2023, in which the Speaker was asked to decide the disqualification issue "within a reasonable period". The verdict came in a case that arose out of a split in the Shiv Sena, leading to a change of regime, with Uddhav Thackeray being succeeded by Mr. Shinde as Chief Minister.

None can dispute that the Speaker has had enough time to decide the matter, even though a few procedural aspects and the clubbing of petitions may account for some delay. In an earlier order in September, the Court had observed that it expected the Speaker to show deference to its directions, especially when he is acting as a tribunal under the Tenth Schedule. Even without judicial orders, the issue of whether a member has incurred disqualification is not a matter which can be dealt with in a leisurely or partisan manner. Recent political history is rife with instances of ruling parties casually recruiting members of the Opposition in several States without any fear of disqualification, as they know that friendly Speakers will not disqualify them. At the end of its judgment in the Karnataka disqualification case, the Court observed that "there is a growing trend of Speakers acting against the constitutional duty of being neutral". In Manipur, the Court went so far as to remove a Minister from office after the Speaker failed to decide, even long after the expiry of a judicial deadline, whether the Minister had incurred disqualification for defection. So long as the Speaker is vested with the authority to adjudicate disqualification issues, it will be difficult to free matters of defection from the thicker of politics.

WELCOME ASSERTION

Matters of defection should be taken out of the purview of the Speaker

It is a welcome sign of judicial assertion that the Supreme Court of India has fixed a deadline for the Maharashtra Assembly Speaker to adjudicate on petitions seeking the disqualification of members who had broken away from the leadership of the Shiv Sena and the Nationalist Congress Party (NCP). Long experience shows that Speakers tend to treat disqualification issues with great alacrity or supine indifference, depending on their political affiliations.

01-11-2023

Welcome assertion

Matters of defection should be taken out of the purview of the Speaker

It is a welcome sign of judicial assertion that the Supreme Court of India has fixed a deadline for the Maharashtra Assembly Speaker to adjudicate on petitions seeking the disqualification of members who had broken away from the leadership of the Shiv Sena and the Nationalist Congress Party (NCP). Long experience shows that Speakers tend to treat disqualification issues with great alacrity or supine indifference, depending on their political affiliations. Despite being reminded from time to time of their duty to remain neutral and demonstrate a sense of urgency in dealing with questions arising out of the Tenth Schedule of the Constitution, the anti-defection law, presiding officers appear to place political loyalties above their constitutional duty. It is quite fitting, therefore, that the apex court has asked Speaker Rahul Narwekar to decide the disqualification petitions against Chief Minister Eknath Shinde's camp by December 31 and those concerning the NCP's breakaway group headed by Deputy Chief Minister Ajit Pawar by January 31, 2024. The directions are a natural follow-up to the outcome of a Constitution Bench decision on May 11, 2023, in which the Speaker was asked to decide the disqualification issue "within a reasonable period". The verdict came in a case that arose out of a split in the Shiv Sena, leading to a change of regime, with Uddhav Thackeray being succeeded by Mr. Shinde as Chief Minister.

None can dispute that the Speaker has had enough time to decide the matter, even though a few procedural aspects and the clubbing of petitions may account for some delay. In an earlier order in September, the Court had observed that it expected the Speaker to show deference to its directions, especially when he is acting as a tribunal under the Tenth Schedule. Even without judicial orders, the issue of whether a member has incurred disqualification is not a matter which can be dealt with in a leisurely or partisan manner. Recent political history is rife with instances of ruling parties casually recruiting members of the Opposition in several States without any fear of disqualification, as they know that friendly Speakers will not disqualify them. At the end of its judgment in the Karnataka disqualification case, the Court observed that "there is a growing trend of Speakers acting against the constitutional duty of being neutral". In Manipur, the Court went so far as to remove a Minister from office after the Speaker failed to decide, even long after the expiry of a judicial deadline, whether the Minister had incurred disqualification for defection. So long as the Speaker is vested with the authority to adjudicate disqualification issues, it will be difficult to free matters of defection from the thicket of politics.

Despite being reminded from time to time of their duty to remain neutral and demonstrate a sense of urgency in dealing with questions arising out of the Tenth Schedule of the Constitution, the anti-defection law, presiding officers appear to place political loyalties above their constitutional duty. It is quite fitting, therefore, that the apex court has asked Speaker Rahul Narwekar to decide the disqualification petitions against Chief Minister Eknath Shinde's camp by December 31 and those concerning the NCP's breakaway group headed by Deputy Chief Minister Ajit Pawar by January 31, 2024.

WE EXPRESS OUR SINCERE THANKS FOR VIEWING THIS VIDEO

Presented by

Learning Space

For Suggestions:

suggestions@learningspace.in

To Contact us:

info@learningspace.in

For Information:

info.learningspacedigital@gmail.com

Visit us at:

www.learningspacedigital.com

98499 42299