HUMAN VALUES

MODULE - 12

ROLE OF EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

“Education of heart, or Moral Education is the prime function to provide. If we succeed in building character of the individual, society will take care of itself”.

BERTRAND RUSSEL

“The chief aim of education is the formation of character.”

The modern world reflects violence, exploitation, corruption, terrorism, the Armaments Race, and nepotism in public life indicating that humanity seems to have lost its values.

As we spend a lot of our productive time in educational institutions during our formative years, educational institutions have to share the blame for the deterioration in values.

Although 21st century has seen a lot of scientific progress, a better balance between Academic Excellence and Human values is sorely missing.

The School is an important agent through which the child is able to systematically know, learn and develop the values.

ROOSEVELT

“Education is a continuous and dynamic process. It is a process that leads to all round development of man and creates a ‘sound mind in a sound body’. It assists in discovering lasting values and modification of behavior”.

“The goal of education is man making: Making of the whole human being.”

Formal education is and can be a major agent in teaching social values, self-awareness, self-realization and self-evaluation.

The youth of today and tomorrow should be imbued with a strong commitment to human values and social justice. Education should provide ample scope to study critically the social, economic, cultural, moral and spiritual issues facing the people today.

The development of the mind alone, without or with very little moral and spiritual development, has worked against human progress toward love, sympathy and brotherhood.

Education plays key role in making people aware of value of environment.

Guru is Brahma, Guru is Vishnu, Guru is Lord Maheshwara.
Guru is verily the supreme reality. Sublime prostrations to Him.

Children in school are part of a small society and their value development is shaped by their experiences.

Both teachers and peers play a significant role in the shaping of value culture of a student who learns from both formal instructions and informal experiences at school.

Formal value based education is important in helping everyone improve the value system that one holds and practises. Values thus acquired at educational institutions help one examine and control the various choices one makes one's life.

The central purpose of education is to build character.

“We must realize the talents of the children and help them to become what they are to the full potential. It is the machine that constructs; it is the living spirit that creates. Song, dance and literature are creative activities”.

Mahatma Gandhi said “Education aims at development of: hand, head and heart and “Education is thus an awakening of the soul”. “It was to be their real teacher and guardian which must touch their hearts. It must share their joys”.

The UGC’s Kothari Education Commission, 1964-66 summarized the Indian concept of education as: Education according to Indian tradition is not merely a means of earning a living; nor is it only a nursery of thought or a school for citizenship. It is the initiation into a life of spirit, a training of human souls in pursuit of truth and the practice of virtue.

MORAL AIM

The child's character is to be modified by imparting higher ideals and cultivating socially desirable moral values. The ethical or moral aim is supreme because it can be reconciled to all other aims.

SOCIAL AIM

Character education consists of developing proper attitudes and responses. Enriching of students in the finer social manners and social cultures includes a development in the making of a satisfactory and satisfying social adjustment.

BEHAVIOURAL AIM

The attitudes and reactions are both intellectual and emotional. These are the ways one thinks, feels and responds when facing some reality of life whether philosophical or personal, and this behaviour has to be shaped by education.

RELIGIOUS AIM

Religious education gives every learner a faith that will inculcate values, provide goals, and stimulate action. It is also essential to make them aware of the need to develop as a human being and to develop the spiritual side.

ENVIRONMENTAL AIM

Education in environmental matters teaches responsible conduct by individuals in protecting and improving the environment in its full human dimension.

With value education, we create a better world for tomorrow to live in.

Value based education shapes students' future, adds purpose to their life and helps them to learn the right way to live their life.

It teaches them to remain connected to their parents as well as to other community, makes them learn how to deal with their day to day activities, and helps them to gain self-responsibility for their behaviour.

The school is a model of the world, so the goal of value based education in school is to nourish the learners with moral values, virtues based on which their actions will reflect their behaviour.

Value education doesn't expect higher grades from students but wants to develop positive attitude in them.

Value education is not a kind of separate subject that teacher has to teach just as they teach their regular subject.

The education in itself holds values so the teacher needs to teach the students to implement them in their real life to behave in a polite as well as responsible manner.

Value education is important not just for students. It is also important for the teachers as well as staffs. To develop a good personality in students through value education, a teacher first need to be their role model.

The students should be encouraged to have proper role taking means for their value development.

Schools should teach values like skill of interdependence by working independently, skill of comparison through loving and caring.

If classroom sends messages of empathy, safety, security and belonging, in such a classroom, learning becomes invigorating and joyous.

Schools should provide a healthy climate for sharing responsibilities and community relationships and have a firm authority structure whose rules, principles and forms of punishment should be clear and defensible.

Education is a value and school is an instrument to realise it.

ROLE OF SCHOOL

The whole realm of education is centered on the development of the value aspect of human beings.

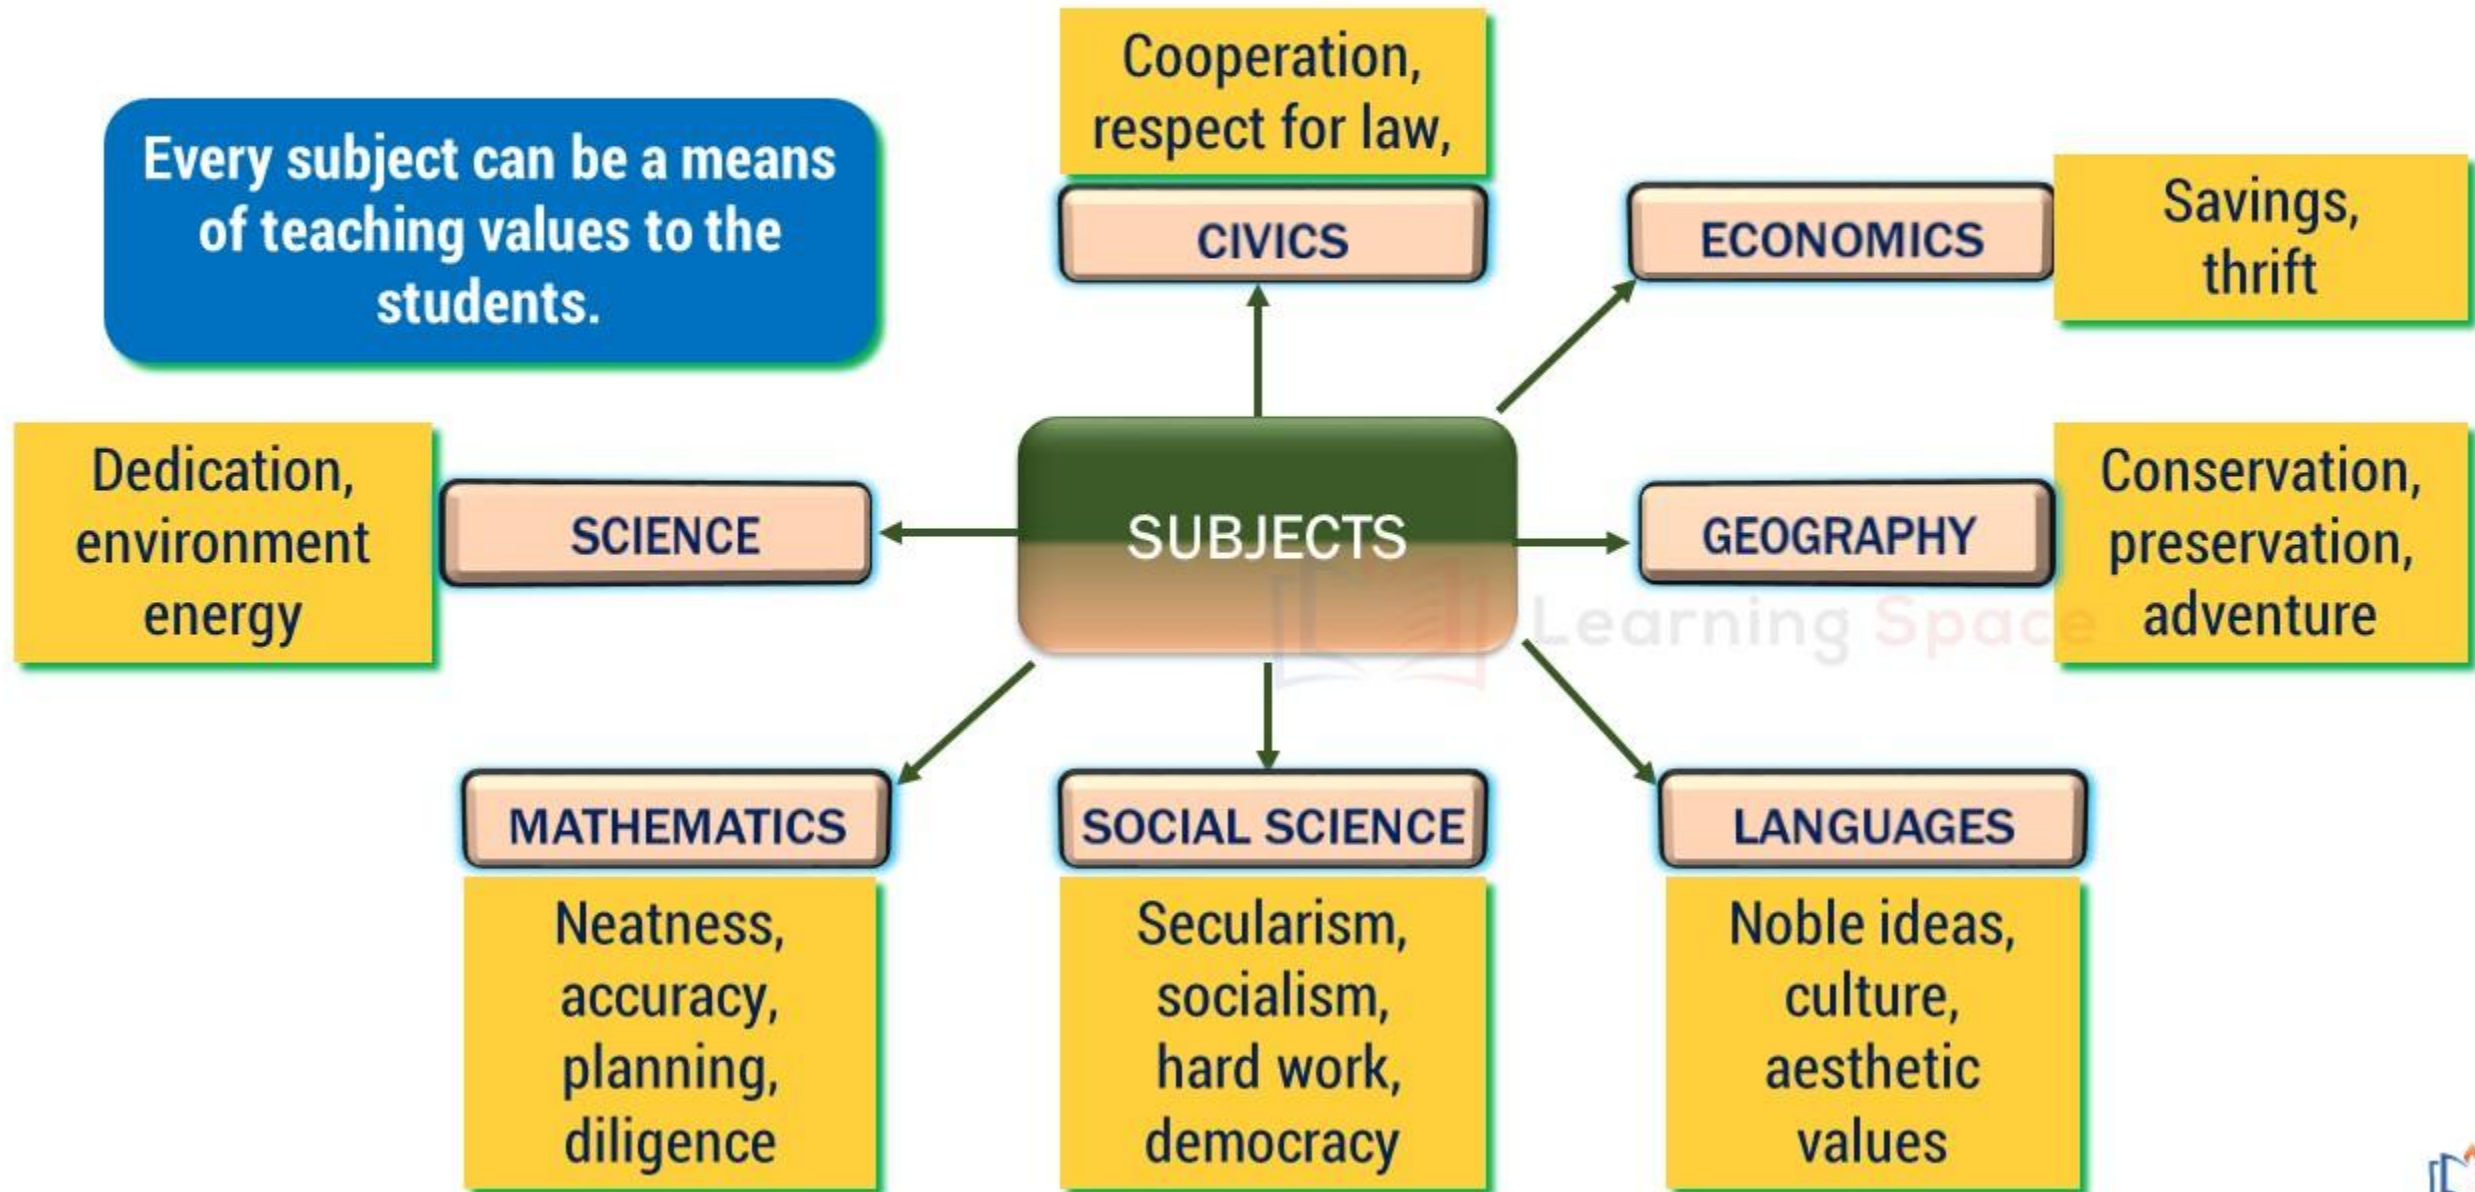

The School climate is important in creating an environment to develop the character. The school atmosphere, the personality and behavior of the teachers, who act as role models, and the facilities provided in the campus will play a large role in developing a sense of values.

The school assembly, the curricular and co-curricular activities, the celebration of festivals of all religions, work experience, team games, subjects, clubs, and social service programs can all help in indicating the values.

Even colleges play a vital role in the inculcation of values in the students.

ETHICS, INTEGRITY & APTITUDE THROUGH CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

Every subject can be a means of teaching values to the students.

THROUGH CO-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

Active participation in co-curricular activities arouses curiosity, creates interest and inculcates values.

Help develop team spirit, social unity, cooperation, tolerance, brotherhood, goodwill, social inclination, compassion.

SOCIALVALUES*PHYSICAL*PSYCHOLOGICAL*CIVIC

Physical activities like games, mass drill, NCC, NSS, swimming, boating, yogic exercises, gardening etc.

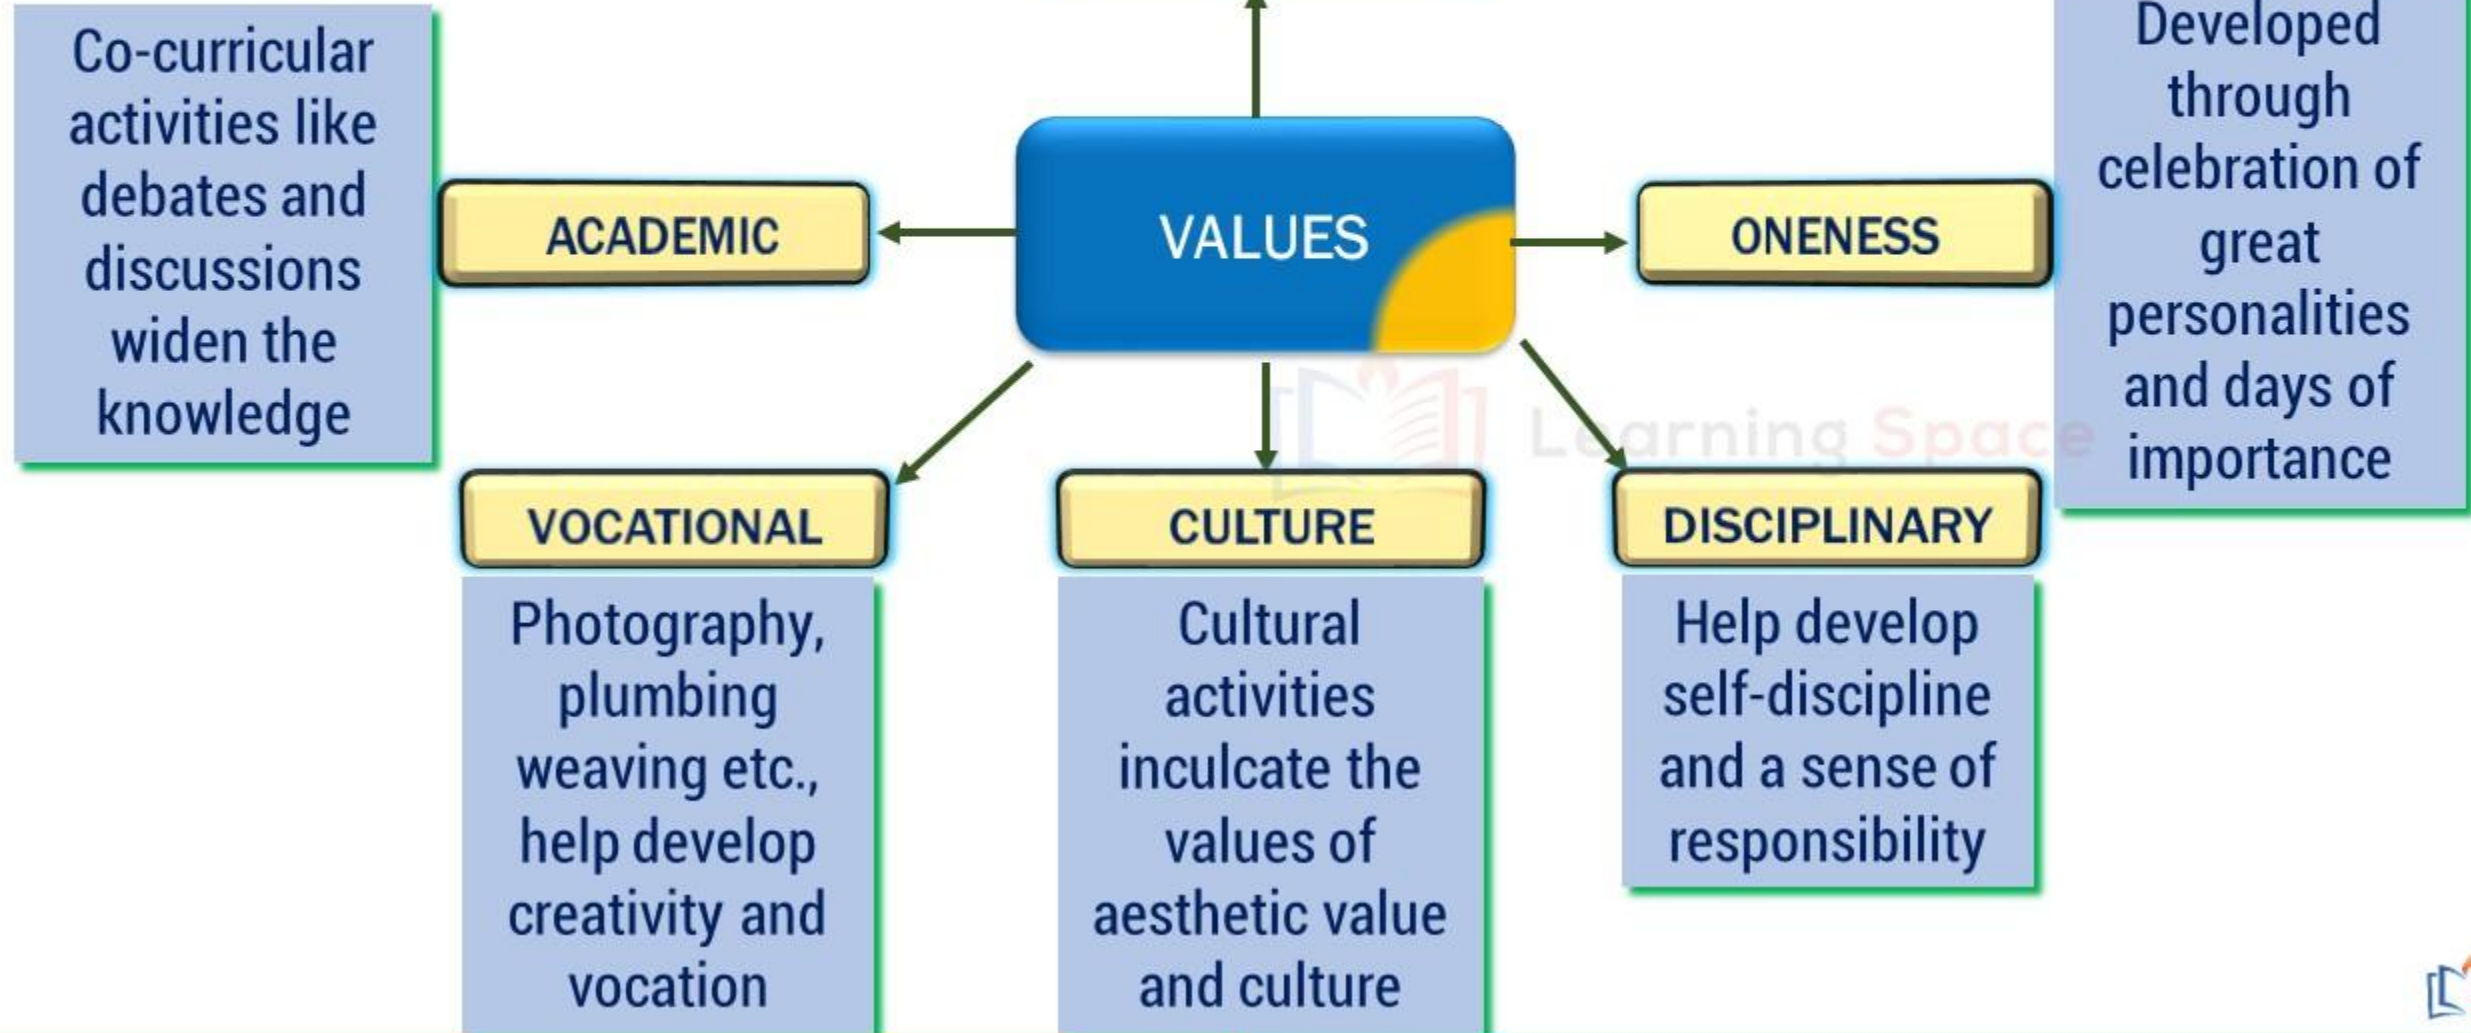

Experiences like self-government, student council, various activity clubs, membership of various committees inculcate responsible behaviour.

Co-curricular activities inculcate psychological values such as precision, determination, self-control, courage

ETHICS, INTEGRITY & APTITUDE

Sports impart integrity, uprightness, impartiality, honesty, and fairness.

THROUGH CO-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

In order for the values to be meaningful to the students, the staff should understand the basic needs of children.

CHILDREN'S NEEDS

- To be loved and valued.
- To feel secure and know clearly what is expected of them.
- To have a balance of activities – active/passive; quiet/talking; communicating/reflective; taught skills/exploratory work.
- To have help to develop relationships.
- To develop self-awareness and a knowledge of the world outside of themselves.
- To have creative experiences, including external exploration and internal reflection.
- To be fully involved in the process of education.

In order to try to meet the needs of children, staff should always try to be consistent in their own behaviour and in their expectations of the children.

TEACHERS SHOULD

- Value all the children.
- Display great patience and listen carefully to children.
- Focus on and emphasise the positive.
- Face reality and help students to come to terms with difficult issues as and when they arise.
- Only disapprove of poor behaviour, never the child.
- Try to make time for one another.
- Be mutually supportive.
- Have a good sense of humour.
- Communicate with parents to ensure that they appreciate the school's values and to ensure that there is a common understanding.

To make the value aspect of education programmes more prominent, the following ideas can be incorporated in the educational programmes.

- Developing self-respect, self-awareness and self-confidence.
- Promoting selflessness, cooperative spirit, spirit of sharing.
- Cultivating respect for property.
