

ETHICS, INTEGRITY & APTITUDE

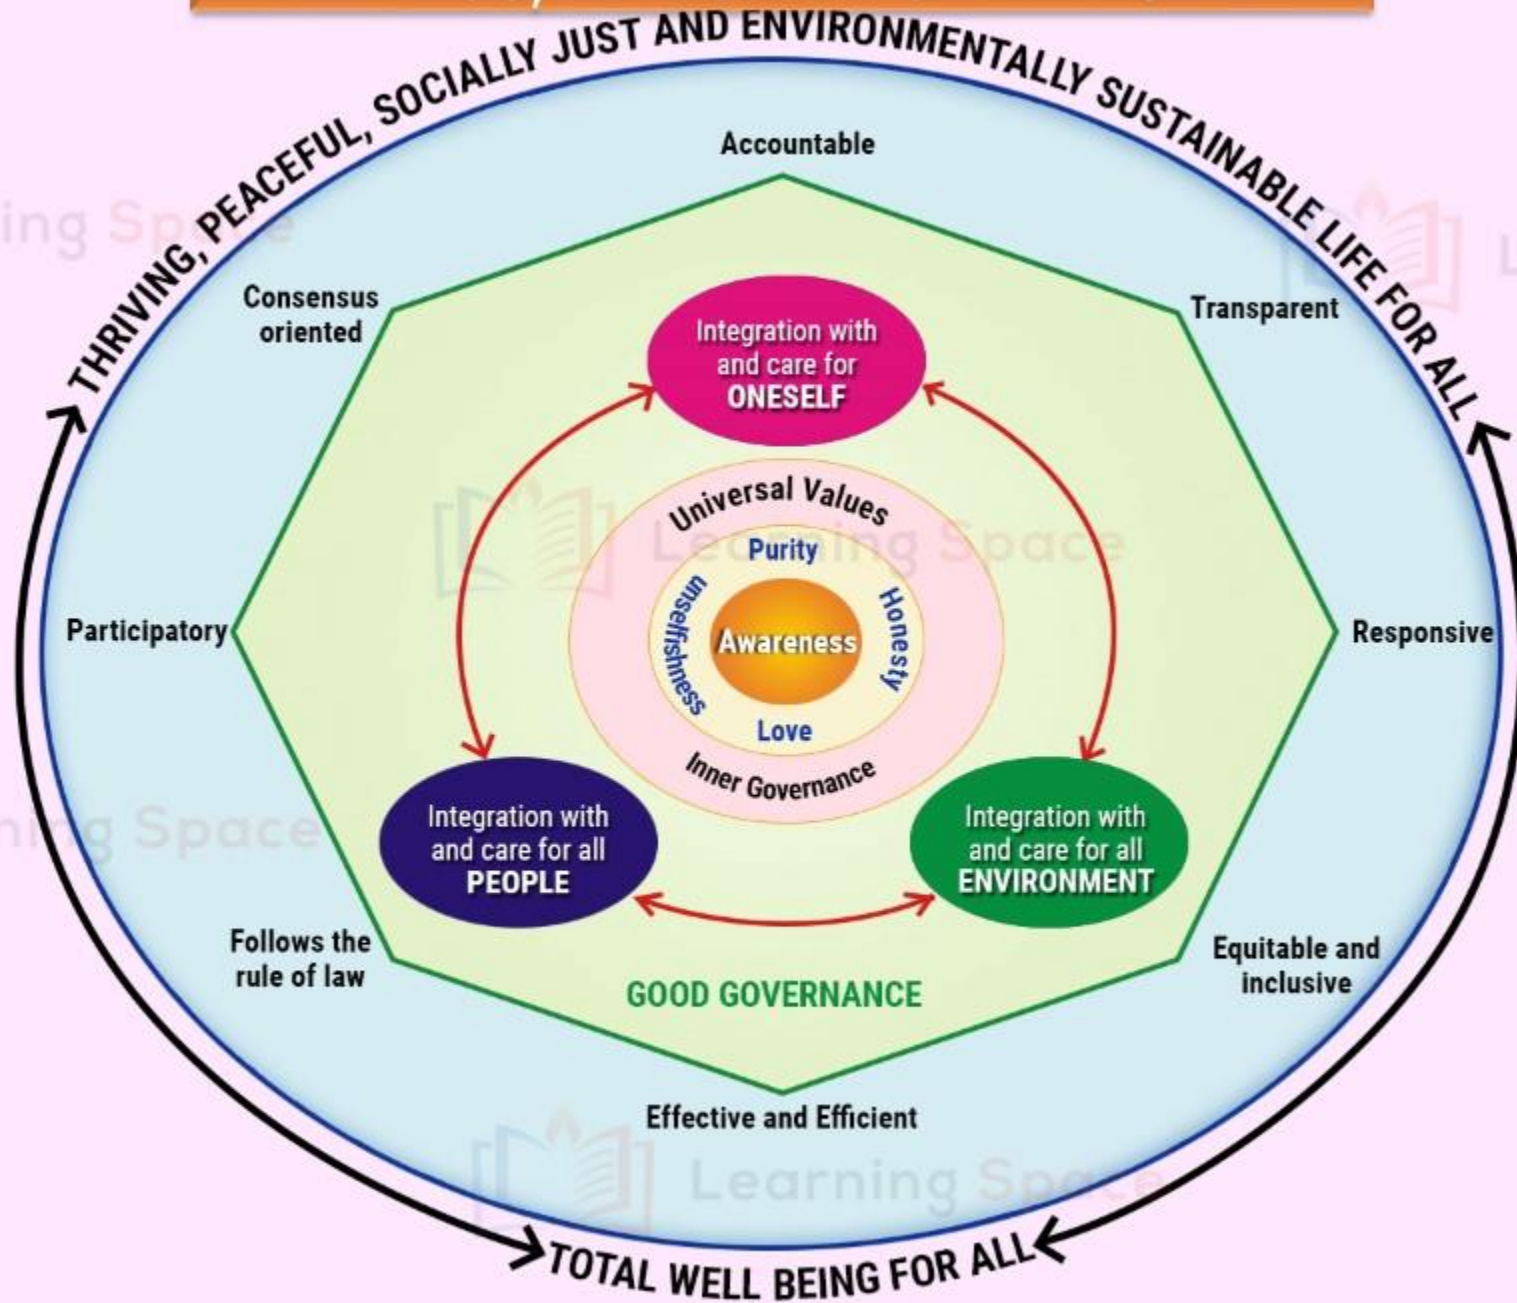

APTITUDE

MODULE – 25

FOUNDATIONAL VALUES FOR CIVIL SERVICE

ETHICS, INTEGRITY & APTITUDE

ETHICS AND VALUES

ETHICS

- A practical definition of ethics: that set of criteria or principles a person uses when selecting a course of action in the face of competing values.

VALUES

- Values can be ethical values (truthfulness, respect for others) or ethically neutral values (ambition, wish to be respected, desire for wealth, etc.).

WHY DO THEY MATTER?

1

Public confidence in government is key to a stable, functioning democracy

2

Unethical behavior in the public sector seriously undermines public confidence

TYPES OF VALUES

TYPES OF VALUES

DESCRIPTIVE VALUES

THE WAY THINGS ARE

- Vary from country to country, company to company, organization to organization, and person to person

ASPIRATIONAL VALUES

THE WAY THINGS OUGHT TO BE

- Core aspirational values are widely shared across religions and cultures

ETHICAL DILEMMA

A true ethical dilemma occurs when one is faced by conflicting ethical values.

- Honesty vs. Kindness (the white lie)
- Compliance with procedures vs. Justice

An unknown ethical dilemma occurs when one is faced by conflicting values, but does not realize it.

- The value of ethics training

A false ethical dilemma occurs when a person is faced with a choice between an ethical value and an ethically neutral or even unethical value.

- Honesty vs personal success

GOALS OF SYSTEM OF ETHICS

Clearly define the aspirational values (the ought)

EXAMPLES

- The World Bank Code of Professional Ethics
- Institute of Internal Auditors

Align descriptive values (the is) with aspirational values (the ought)

MECHANISMS

- Guidance/training
- Compliance enforcement
- Positive incentives

Unethical behavior occurs when a false ethical dilemma is resolved in favor of the ethically neutral or unethical value.

- Lie to make yourself look better, gain wealth, or shift blame.
- The key question: Who benefits?

Who benefits?

GOALS OF SYSTEM OF ETHICS

- Minimize ethical dilemmas

MECHANISMS

- Adjust criteria for success – remove pressure to be unethical
- Transparency of interests
- Internal mechanisms for advice

Provide a framework for resolving ethical dilemmas that do occur

MECHANISMS

- Ombudsman
- Secure channels for reporting misconduct
- Effective “no retaliation” protection for whistleblowers

Unethical behavior occurs when a false ethical dilemma is resolved in favor of the ethically neutral or unethical value.

- Lie to make yourself look better, gain wealth, or shift blame.
- The key question: Who benefits?

THE APPROACHES

1

- Extensive and detailed mandatory rules
 - ✓ Prescriptive (you must)
 - ✓ Proscriptive (you must not)
- Extensive investigation and control mechanisms
- Penalties for non-compliance

2

- General statements of ethical values
- Professional socialization
- Incentives for ethical behavior
- Internal mechanisms for help and advice

TWO APPROACHES

1

Compliance-based

2

Integrity-based

Which is the correct approach?

WHICH ONE IS BETTER?

Integrity-based

“If men were angels, no government would be necessary. If angels were to govern men, neither external nor internal controls on government would be necessary. In framing a government which is to be administered by men over men, the great difficulty lies in this: you must first enable the government to control the governed; and in the next place oblige it to control itself.”

James Madison

Compliance-based

“Everything that is not prohibited is mandatory, and we are watching you at all times.”

- ✓ Would you want this system?
- ✓ Could a democracy survive this system?

The answer: Both are required

The challenge: finding the right balance

ETHICS, INTEGRITY & APTITUDE

KEY FOUNDATIONAL VALUES FOR CIVIL SERVICES

Integrity, impartiality and non-partisanship, objectivity, dedication to public service, empathy, tolerance and compassion towards the weaker-sections are the key foundational values for civil services.

Other values which civil servants are expected to have are: Selflessness, accountability, empathy, compassion, openness, honesty, leadership, responsiveness and sense of justice.

ACCOUNTABILITY

INTEGRITY

IMPARTIALITY, NON PARTISANSHIP

OBJECTIVITY

DEDICATION TO PUBLIC SERVICE

EMPATHY, TOLERANCE AND COMPASSION TOWARDS THE WEAKER-
SECTIONS

INTEGRITY

Integrity is a crucial concept for an understanding and improving of governance.

When Lal Bahadur Shastri asked Indians to fast at least a day in the context of India suffering a tremendous food shortage, he had first asked his wife to skip a meal for their children and see if they could survive through it, only then did he appeal to the country to do the same.

While it is sometimes used synonymously with 'moral,' acting morally and acting with integrity are at times different from each other.

In ethics, integrity is regarded as the honesty and truthfulness or accuracy of one's actions.

"Have the courage to say no. Have the courage to face the truth. Do the right thing because it is right. These are the magic keys to living your life with integrity."

W. Clement
Stone

INTEGRITY

Integrity means following your moral or ethical convictions and doing the right thing in all circumstances, even if no one is watching you.

Having integrity means you are true to yourself and would do nothing that demeans or dishonours you.

An individual's value system provides a framework within which the individual acts in ways which are consistent and expected. Integrity can be seen as the state or condition of having such a framework, and acting congruently within the given framework.

Judging with the standards of integrity involves regarding internal consistency as a virtue, and suggests that people holding within themselves apparently conflicting values should account for the discrepancy or alter their beliefs.

INTEGRITY

One may acknowledge a person to have integrity even though that person may hold what one thinks are importantly mistaken moral views.

Ordinary discourse about integrity involves two fundamental intuitions:

First, that integrity is primarily a formal relation one has to oneself, or between parts or aspects of one's self.

Second, that integrity is connected in an important way to acting morally, in other words, there are some constraints on what it is to act with integrity.

Persons of integrity may in fact act immorally, though they would usually not know they are acting immorally.

INTEGRITY

How these two intuitions can be incorporated into a consistent theory of integrity is not obvious, and most accounts of integrity focus on one of these intuitions at the cost of the other.

A number of accounts have been advanced, the most important of them are:

- integrity as the integration of self
- integrity as maintenance of identity
- integrity as standing for something
- integrity as moral purpose
- integrity as a virtue

INTEGRITY AS

THE INTEGRATION OF SELF

MAINTENANCE OF IDENTITY

STANDING FOR SOMETHING

MORAL PURPOSE

A VIRTUE

INTEGRITY

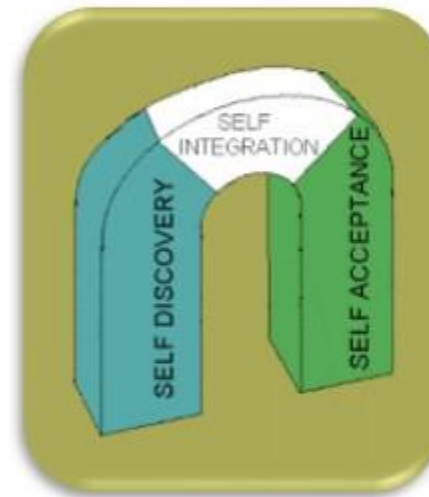

SELF-INTEGRATION

Integrity is a matter of persons integrating various parts of their personality into a harmonious, intact whole. The integrity of persons is analogous to the integrity of things: integrity is primarily a matter of keeping the self intact and uncorrupted.

THE IDENTITY VIEW

A related approach to integrity is to think of it primarily in terms of a person holding steadfastly true to his/her commitments one makes to oneself, others, institutions, relations, cultures and traditions.

The self-integration view of integrity makes integrity a formal relation to the self.

INTEGRITY

THE SELF-CONSTITUTION VIEW

To live with integrity is not merely to have a coherent life-plan and the courage to realise it. It is to act in a way that is rationally endorsed both by oneself as one acts and one's future self. To do this, one must act on principles and these principles must be such that they would be rationally endorsed by any future self who reflects on the matter satisfactorily.

STANDING FOR SOMETHING

Persons with high integrity take a stand for something within the community. Integrity, thus, is having a proper regard for one's role in the community and deliberate on what is worth standing for.

The self-integration and the identity views of integrity place only formal limits on the kinds of desires and projects that might constitute an integrated self.

INTEGRITY

INTEGRITY AS A VIRTUE

A pursuit of integrity involves taking account of one's changing values, convictions, commitments, desires, knowledge, beliefs and so on over time.

Integrity would thus require a robustly successful kind of self-examination. Examining the moral emotions or emotions of self-assessment such as regret, remorse, guilt and shame is required.

INTEGRITY AS MORAL PURPOSE

This account places moral constraints upon the kinds of commitment to which a person of integrity must remain true.

There are two ways of doing this:

One is that people have a sure grasp of their real moral obligations. Second is that people are dedicated to the pursuit of a moral life and take intellectual responsibility in seeking to understand the demands of such a life.

TYPES OF INTEGRITY

1 Showing accountability for one's all personal actions and conducting all personal relationships in honest and fair manner.

2 Conducting one's professional obligations and duties in a complete honest manner and in conformity with the professional code of conduct.

3 It goes beyond the professional integrity and stands for cementing ethical conduct throughout the organisation through personal examples, management practices and ethical training.

THREE TYPES

1

PERSONAL

2

PROFESSIONAL

3

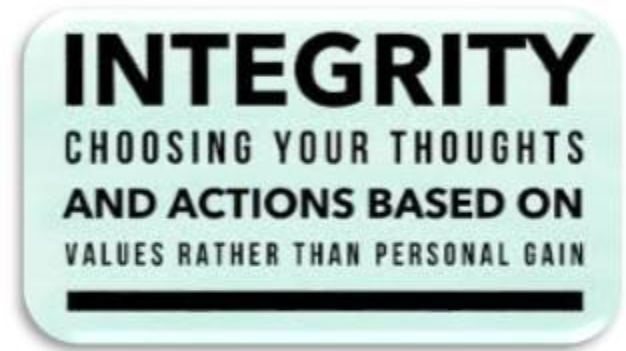

INSTITUTIONAL

Which is the most important?

ALL OF THEM

Integrity means earning and sustaining public trust by:

- serving the public interest
- using powers responsibly, for the purpose and in the manner for which they were intended
- acting with honesty and transparency, making reasoned decisions without bias by following fair and objective processes
- preventing and addressing improper conduct, disclosing facts without hiding or distorting them
- not allowing decisions or actions to be influenced by personal or private interests.

The concept of integrity implies a wholeness, a comprehensive corpus of beliefs with an emphasis on honesty and authenticity, requiring that one act at all times in accordance with the individual's chosen worldview.

WE EXPRESS OUR SINCERE THANKS
FOR VIEWING THIS VIDEO

Presented by

Learning Space

For Suggestions:

suggestions@learningspace.in

To Contact us:

info@learningspace.in

For Information:

info.learningspacedigital@gmail.com

Visit us at:

www.learningspacedigital.com

0866 244 44 72

98499 42299

94415 27588