ETHICS, INTEGRITY & APTITUDE

CASE STUDIES

MODULE - 14

CASE STUDY - 14

You are working with an organization whose financial position is precarious and its turn around is dependent on a contract to be signed with company X. Mr. B is the decision maker of company X and he can make or break the deal for your organization. You are chosen by your organization to present the proposal, negotiate with and convince Mr. B to award the contract to your firm. On the D day, you did a commendable job and was orally assured by Mr. B that the contract would be awarded to your company and the written confirmation will follow within two working days. On your way back, you were offered a ride by Mr. B who happened to be driving your way. He was speeding and driving rashly and caused an accident. The victim was injured severely and the police, duly informed by one of the pedestrians, arrived at the scene. The fate of Mr. B depends entirely on our statement. You were conflicted with the possibilities of either sealing the deal for your company or denying justice to the accident victim.

What course of action would you choose. Justify. (250 words)

CASE STUDIES

The case shows the need for emotional intelligence to act considering all the circumstances

ISSUES INVOLVED

Getting contract is vital for company (professional ethics)

VS

Helping accident victim (personal ethics)

VS

Make B who caused the accident pay for it (justice)

CHOICES AVAILABLE

1. SPEAKING THE TRUTH

MERITS

- B gets punished
- Honesty is upheld
- Justice to victim

DEMERITS

- Loose contract and may be even job
- No immediate compensation to victim

2. HIDE THE TRUTH

MERITS

- Contract saved
- Professional ethics are upheld

DEMERITS

- Became partner in crime
- Justice not served to victim

CASE STUDIES

DECISION CHOSEN

- First take the victim to hospital along with B because saving the life should be the first priority
- Ensure that all expenses of the victim are borne by B
- Ask B to apologize sincerely to the victim and promise to pay other medical expenses till he recovers
- Request the victim to pardon B for his mistake
 - ✓ “Forgiveness is the attribute of Strong” – Gandhi
- Take promise from B that he will not drive fast again
- Request the victim to inform police that it was just a freak minor accident so that no case is registered against anyone

CONCLUSION

Every person has a right to commit mistake, but an opportunity to realise is must. As Gandhi said, “Reform the criminal not the crime”.
