ESTABLISHMENT AND CONSOLIDATION

BRITISH FOREIGN POLICY IN INDIA

BRITISH FOREIGN POLICY WAS GUIDED BY THREE FACTORS

POLICY OF IMPERIALISM
or ideology of extending a nation's rule over foreign nations, often by military force or by gaining political and economic control of other areas.

POLICY OF PROTECTING TERRITORIAL AND COMMERCIAL INTEREST-this is the prime motive of the British

ARMS LENGTH PRINCIPLE
to keep other European powers at arm's length whose colonial interest come in conflict with british

BRITISH INTEREST IN BURMA?

Expansionist
urges of the British

Lure of the forest resources
of Burma

Market for British manufactures in
Burma

To check French ambitions in Burma and
rest of South-East Asia

All this resulted in three Anglo-Burmese Wars, and in the end, the annexation of Burma into British India in 1885.

BRITISH FOREIGN POLICY IN INDIA

ANGLO-BURMESE RELATION

First Anglo- Burmeses war was due to expansionary policy of Burma

FIRST ANGLO-BURMESE WAR (1824-26)

BRITISH
(BENGAL REGION)

Continuous friction along
the ill-defined border
between Bengal and Burma

BURMA

Earlier Burma occupied Arakan and Manipur
and there was threat to Assam.

In return, British forces occupied
Rangoon in 1824 and reached at capital Ava.

PEACE WAS ESTABLISHED IN 1826 WITH THE TREATY OF YANDABO

POST ANNEXATION

British had to face a nationalist movement in Burma .
Burmese nationalists joined hands with INC.

To weaken link between Burmese nationalists and INC, Burma was separated from India in 1935.

Burmese nationalist movement further intensified under U Aung San during 2nd WW.

Finally led to independence of Burma on January 4, 1948

JOHN LAWRENCE (1864-1869) AND THE POLICY OF MASTERLY INACTIVITY

Peace at the frontier should not be disturbed

No candidate in civil war sought foreign help

He emphasized on cultivating the friendship with the Emperor of Afghanistan rather than interfere in the internal matters.

LYTTON (1874-1880) AND THE POLICY OF PROUD RESERVE

aimed at having scientific frontiers safeguarding 'spheres of influence'

According to Lytton, the boundary between two countries should be crystal and clear without any ambiguity.

BRITISH INDIA AND NORTH WEST FRONTIER

During Abdur Rahman boundary line known as Durand Line was drawn between Afghan and British territories

But the Durand Agreement (1893) failed to keep peace and soon there were tribal uprisings which continued till 1898.

Curzon, the viceroy between 1899 and 1905, followed a policy of withdrawal and concentration. British troops withdrew from advanced posts which were replaced by tribal troops, trained and commanded by British officers.

He also encouraged the tribals to maintain peace. He created the North-West Frontier Province (NWFP) directly under the Government of India

Overall, Curzon's policies resulted in a peaceful north-west frontier.

THEORY

ANGLO-AFGHAN RELATION

- 1 Amir of Afghanistan, Dost Mohammed, wanted British friendship but made it conditional on British helping him to recover Peshawar from the Sikhs.
- 2 British government rejected and Dost Mohammed now turned to Russia and Persia for help.
- 3 Auckland who came to India as the governor-general in 1836, advocated a forward policy.
- 4 As per this policy, taking initiatives to protect the boundary of British India from a probable Russian attack.
- 5 This objective was to be achieved either through treaties with the neighboring countries or by annexing them completely.

THEORY

FIRST ANGLO-AFGHAN WAR 1839-1842

- 1 After the tripartite treaty of 1838, Persia and Russia recalled and withdrew their troops from Afghanistan.
- 2 British decided to go ahead with their forward policy. This resulted in the First Afghan War (1839- 1842).
- 3 British intention was to establish a permanent barrier against schemes of aggression from the north-west.
- 4 The then Amir, Dost Mohammed, surrendered and Shah Shuja was made the Amir of Afghanistan. But Shah Shuja was unacceptable to Afghans.
- 5 British decided to go ahead with their forward policy. This resulted in the First Afghan War (1839- 1842).
- 6 Afghans rose in rebellion. British were compelled to sign a treaty with Afghan chiefs by which they agreed to evacuate Afghanistan and restore Dost Mohammed.

THEORY

SECOND ANGLO-AFGHAN WAR 1870-1880

1 Sher Ali, Amir of Afghanistan, wanted friendship with both his powerful neighbors, Russia and British India, keeping both of them at an arm's length.

2 Sher Ali refused to keep a British envoy in Kabul while granted a similar concession to the Russians. Lytton was displeased with this.

3 Lytton decided to invade Afghanistan. Sher Ali fled and Treaty of Gandamak (1879) was signed with Yakub Khan, the eldest son of Sher Ali.

TREATY OF GANDAMAK

- Amir conduct his foreign policy with the advice of Government of India;
- a permanent British resident be stationed at Kabul;
- the Government of India give Amir all support against foreign aggression, and an annual subsidy.

Yakub had to abdicate under popular pressure. Abdur Rehman became the new Amir. Habibullah (who succeeded Abdur Rahman in 1901) was killed in 1919 and the new ruler Amamullah declared open war on the British. Peace came in 1921 when Afghanistan recovered independence in foreign affairs
