HUNTER EDUCATION COMMISSION (1882-83)

BACKGROUND

WHY HUNTER EDUCATION COMMISSION WAS BROUGHT?

SIR WILLIAM HUNTER

Lord Ripon appointed the first Indian Education Commission, with Sir William Hunter as its Chairman. It is known as Hunter Commission of 1882.

Queen's Proclamation of 1858

Advocated a policy of strict religious neutrality.

Which greatly disappointed

MISSIONARIES

Started an agitation and formed the "General Council of Education".

General Council of Education requested Lord Ripon, the viceroy of India to institute an enquiry into Indian education.

EDUCATION POLICY

HUNTER EDUCATION COMMISSION (1882-83)

Objective was to review the progress of education in the country since the Despatch of 1854

HUNTER EDUCATION COMMISSION-OBSERVED

Neglect of primary and secondary education

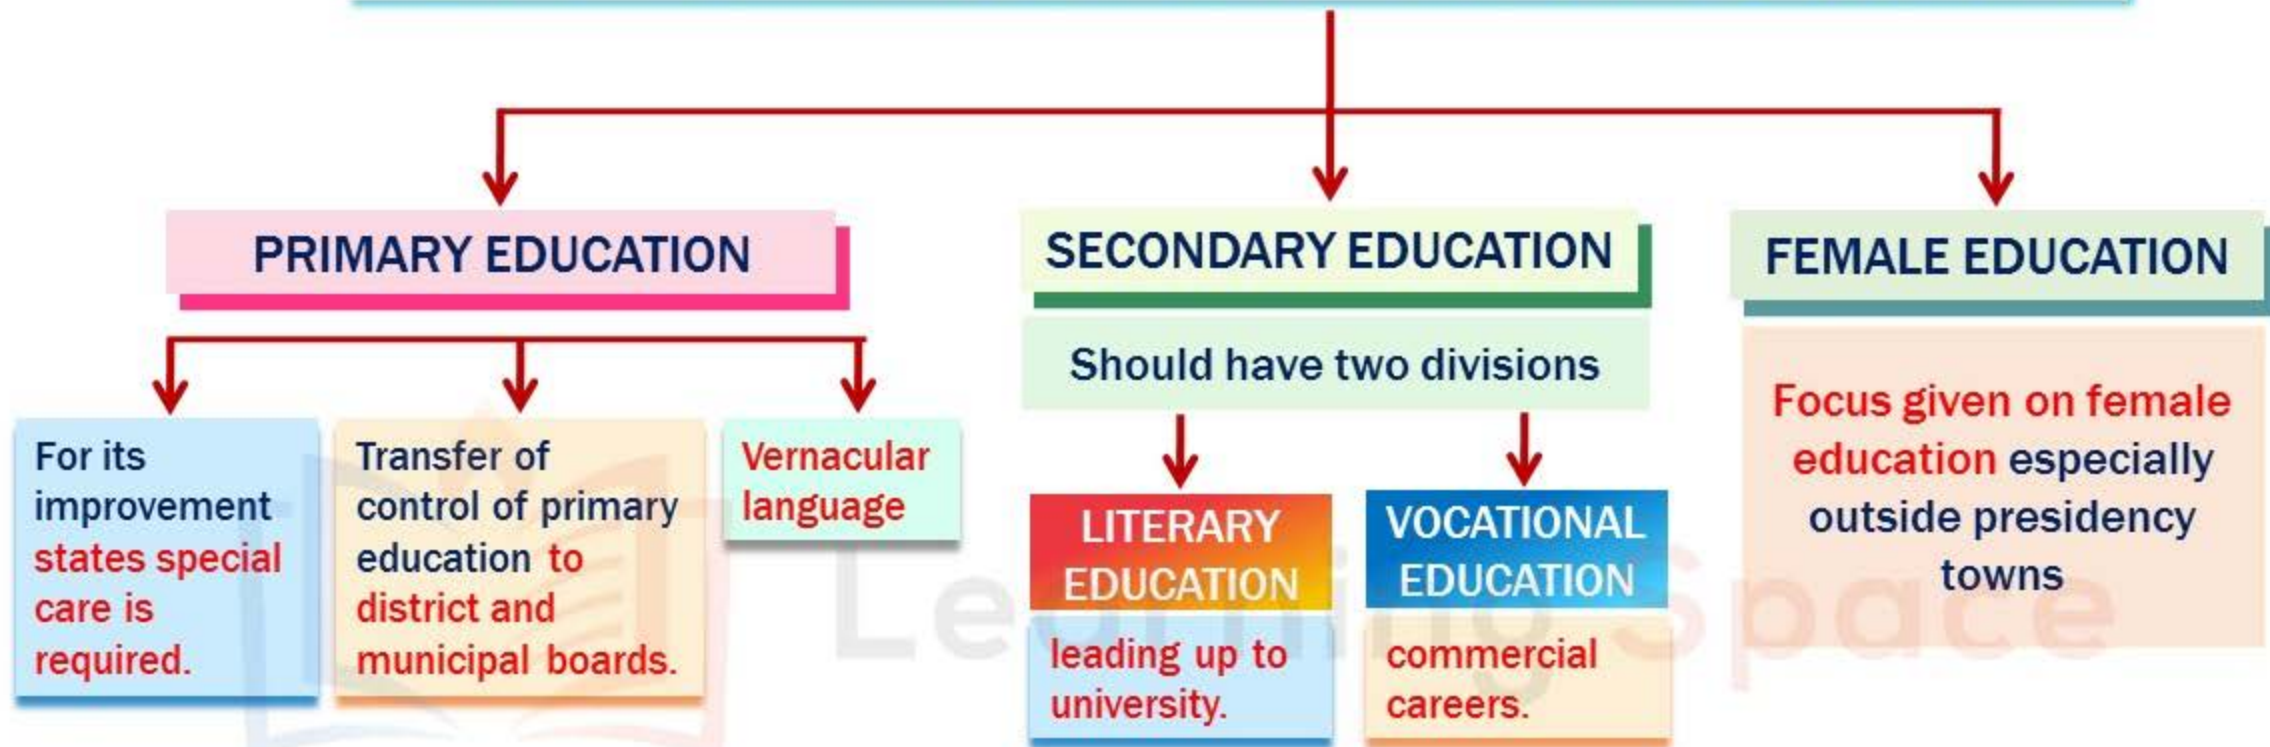

When education was shifted to provinces in 1870, primary and secondary education further suffered

- the provinces already had limited resources at their disposal

Grant-in-aid system as suggested by Wood's Despatch was not properly carried out.

HUNTER EDUCATION COMMISSION (1882-83)

Its recommendations were confined to primary and secondary education

EDUCATION POLICY

HUNTER EDUCATION COMMISSION (1882-83)

EVALUATION OF HUNTER COMMISSION

The next two decades saw rapid growth and expansion of secondary and collegiate education with the participation of Indians. More teaching-cum-examining universities were set up.

PUNJAB UNIVERSITY (1882)

ALLAHABAD UNIVERSITY (1887)

EDUCATION POLICY

RALEIGH COMMISSION, 1902

WHY RALEIGH COMMISSION WAS ESTABLISHED

By 1887, there were only 5 universities, but the number of colleges were increasing which were beyond the control and territorial limit of universities.

Under private management the quality of education had deteriorated.

Nationalists pressure:-

- To provide better education.
- They were accusing the Government of not doing anything to eradicate illiteracy.

Government view-

- Educational institutions acted as “factories producing political revolutionaries”.

- In 1902, Raleigh Commission, first university commission was set up.
- Based on its recommendations, the Indian Universities Act was passed in 1904.

RALEIGH COMMISSION, 1902

To look into conditions and prospects of universities in India.
To suggest measures for improvement in their constitution and working.

INDIAN UNIVERSITIES ACT, 1904

University should focus on study
and research

LORD CURZON

Greater control over universities by Government

- Power to veto university regulation.
- Condition of affiliation to college made stricter
- Number of fellows of university were reduced and most of them were nominated by Government.

Five lakh rupees
per annum
for five years for improvement of higher education and universities.

Curzon passed this act and justified greater control over universities in the name of quality and efficiency. But actually sought to prevent nationalistic ideals and to make educated loyal towards the Government. The nationalists saw in it an attempt to strengthen imperialism and to sabotage nationalist feelings. Gokhale called it a "retrograde measure".

EDUCATION POLICY

GOVERNMENT RESOLUTION ON EDUCATION POLICY—1913

BACKGROUND

In 1906, state of Baroda introduced compulsory primary education throughout its territories.

National leaders like Gokhale urged the government to do so for British India.

1913 RESOLUTION ON EDUCATION POLICY

Refused to take up the responsibility of compulsory education

Accepted policy of removal of illiteracy by—

- Private efforts were to be encouraged
- Urged provincial governments to take early steps to provide free elementary education to the poorer and more backward sections
- A university, it was decided, was to be established in each province and teaching activities of universities were to be encouraged.
- Quality of secondary schools was to be improved.

SADDLER UNIVERSITY COMMISSION (1917-19)

WHY SADDLER COMMISSION WAS BROUGHT?

After 1887, no new universities were opened for next 30 years, but number of Colleges increased which were beyond the control and territorial limits of the various universities.

By this time Royal Commission was constituted to recommend reforms for London University. So need arose to bring reform in Indian Universities also.

1857

3 universities were established after Wood's Dispatch in Bombay, Calcutta and Madras.

1887

- 1882- Punjab University
- 1887- Allahabad university
- Thus by 1887, there were five universities.

1902

Lord Curzon was the first who tried to bring some administrative reforms in university education by instituting a University Education Commission in 1902.

Curzon's policy of shrinkage and control of higher education received widespread criticism among the nationalist Indians

1917

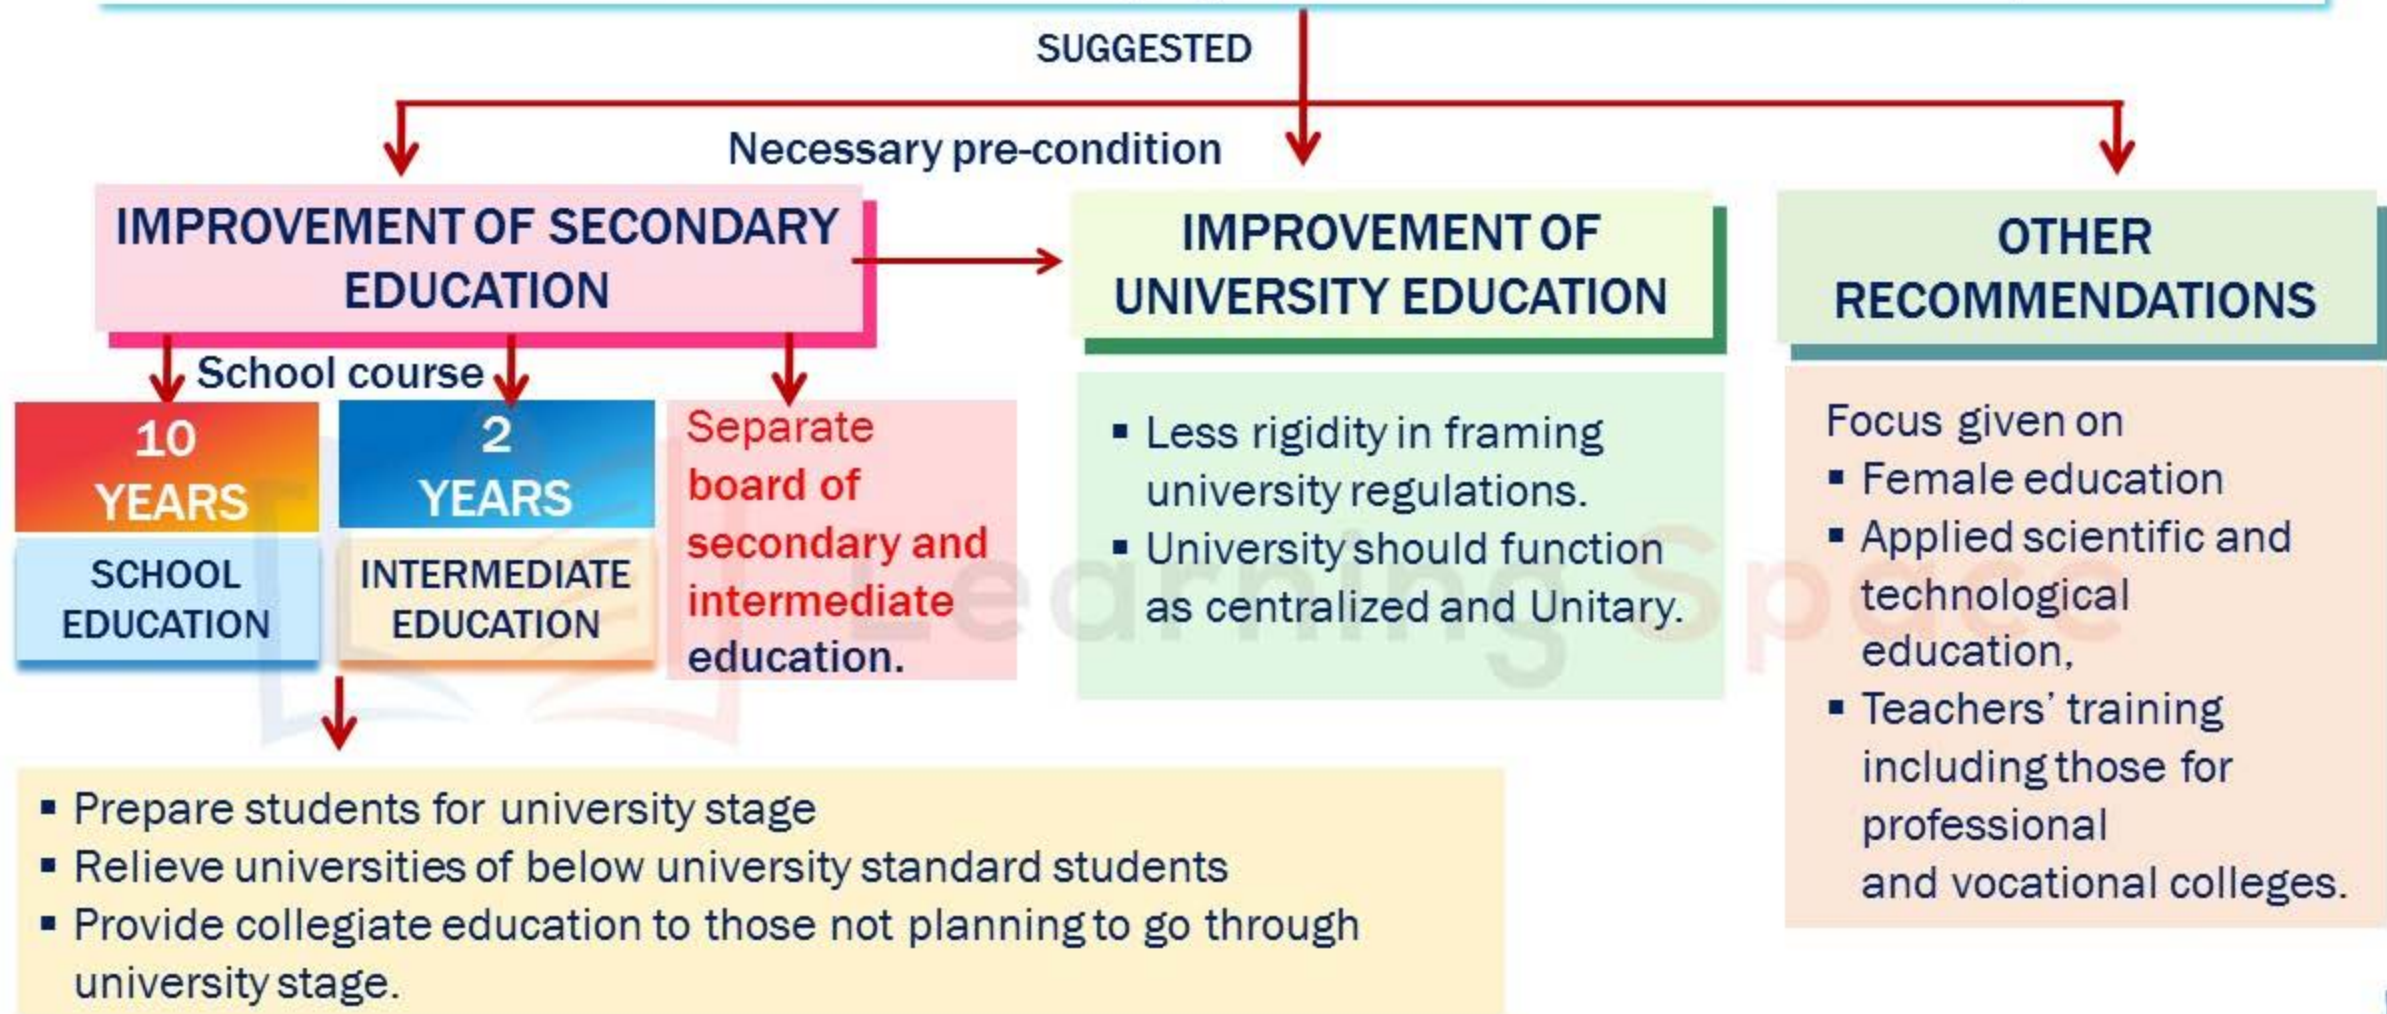

All these circumstances led to the formation of the second university commission. i.e., Calcutta University Commission, 1917.

EDUCATION POLICY

SADDLER UNIVERSITY COMMISSION (1917-19)

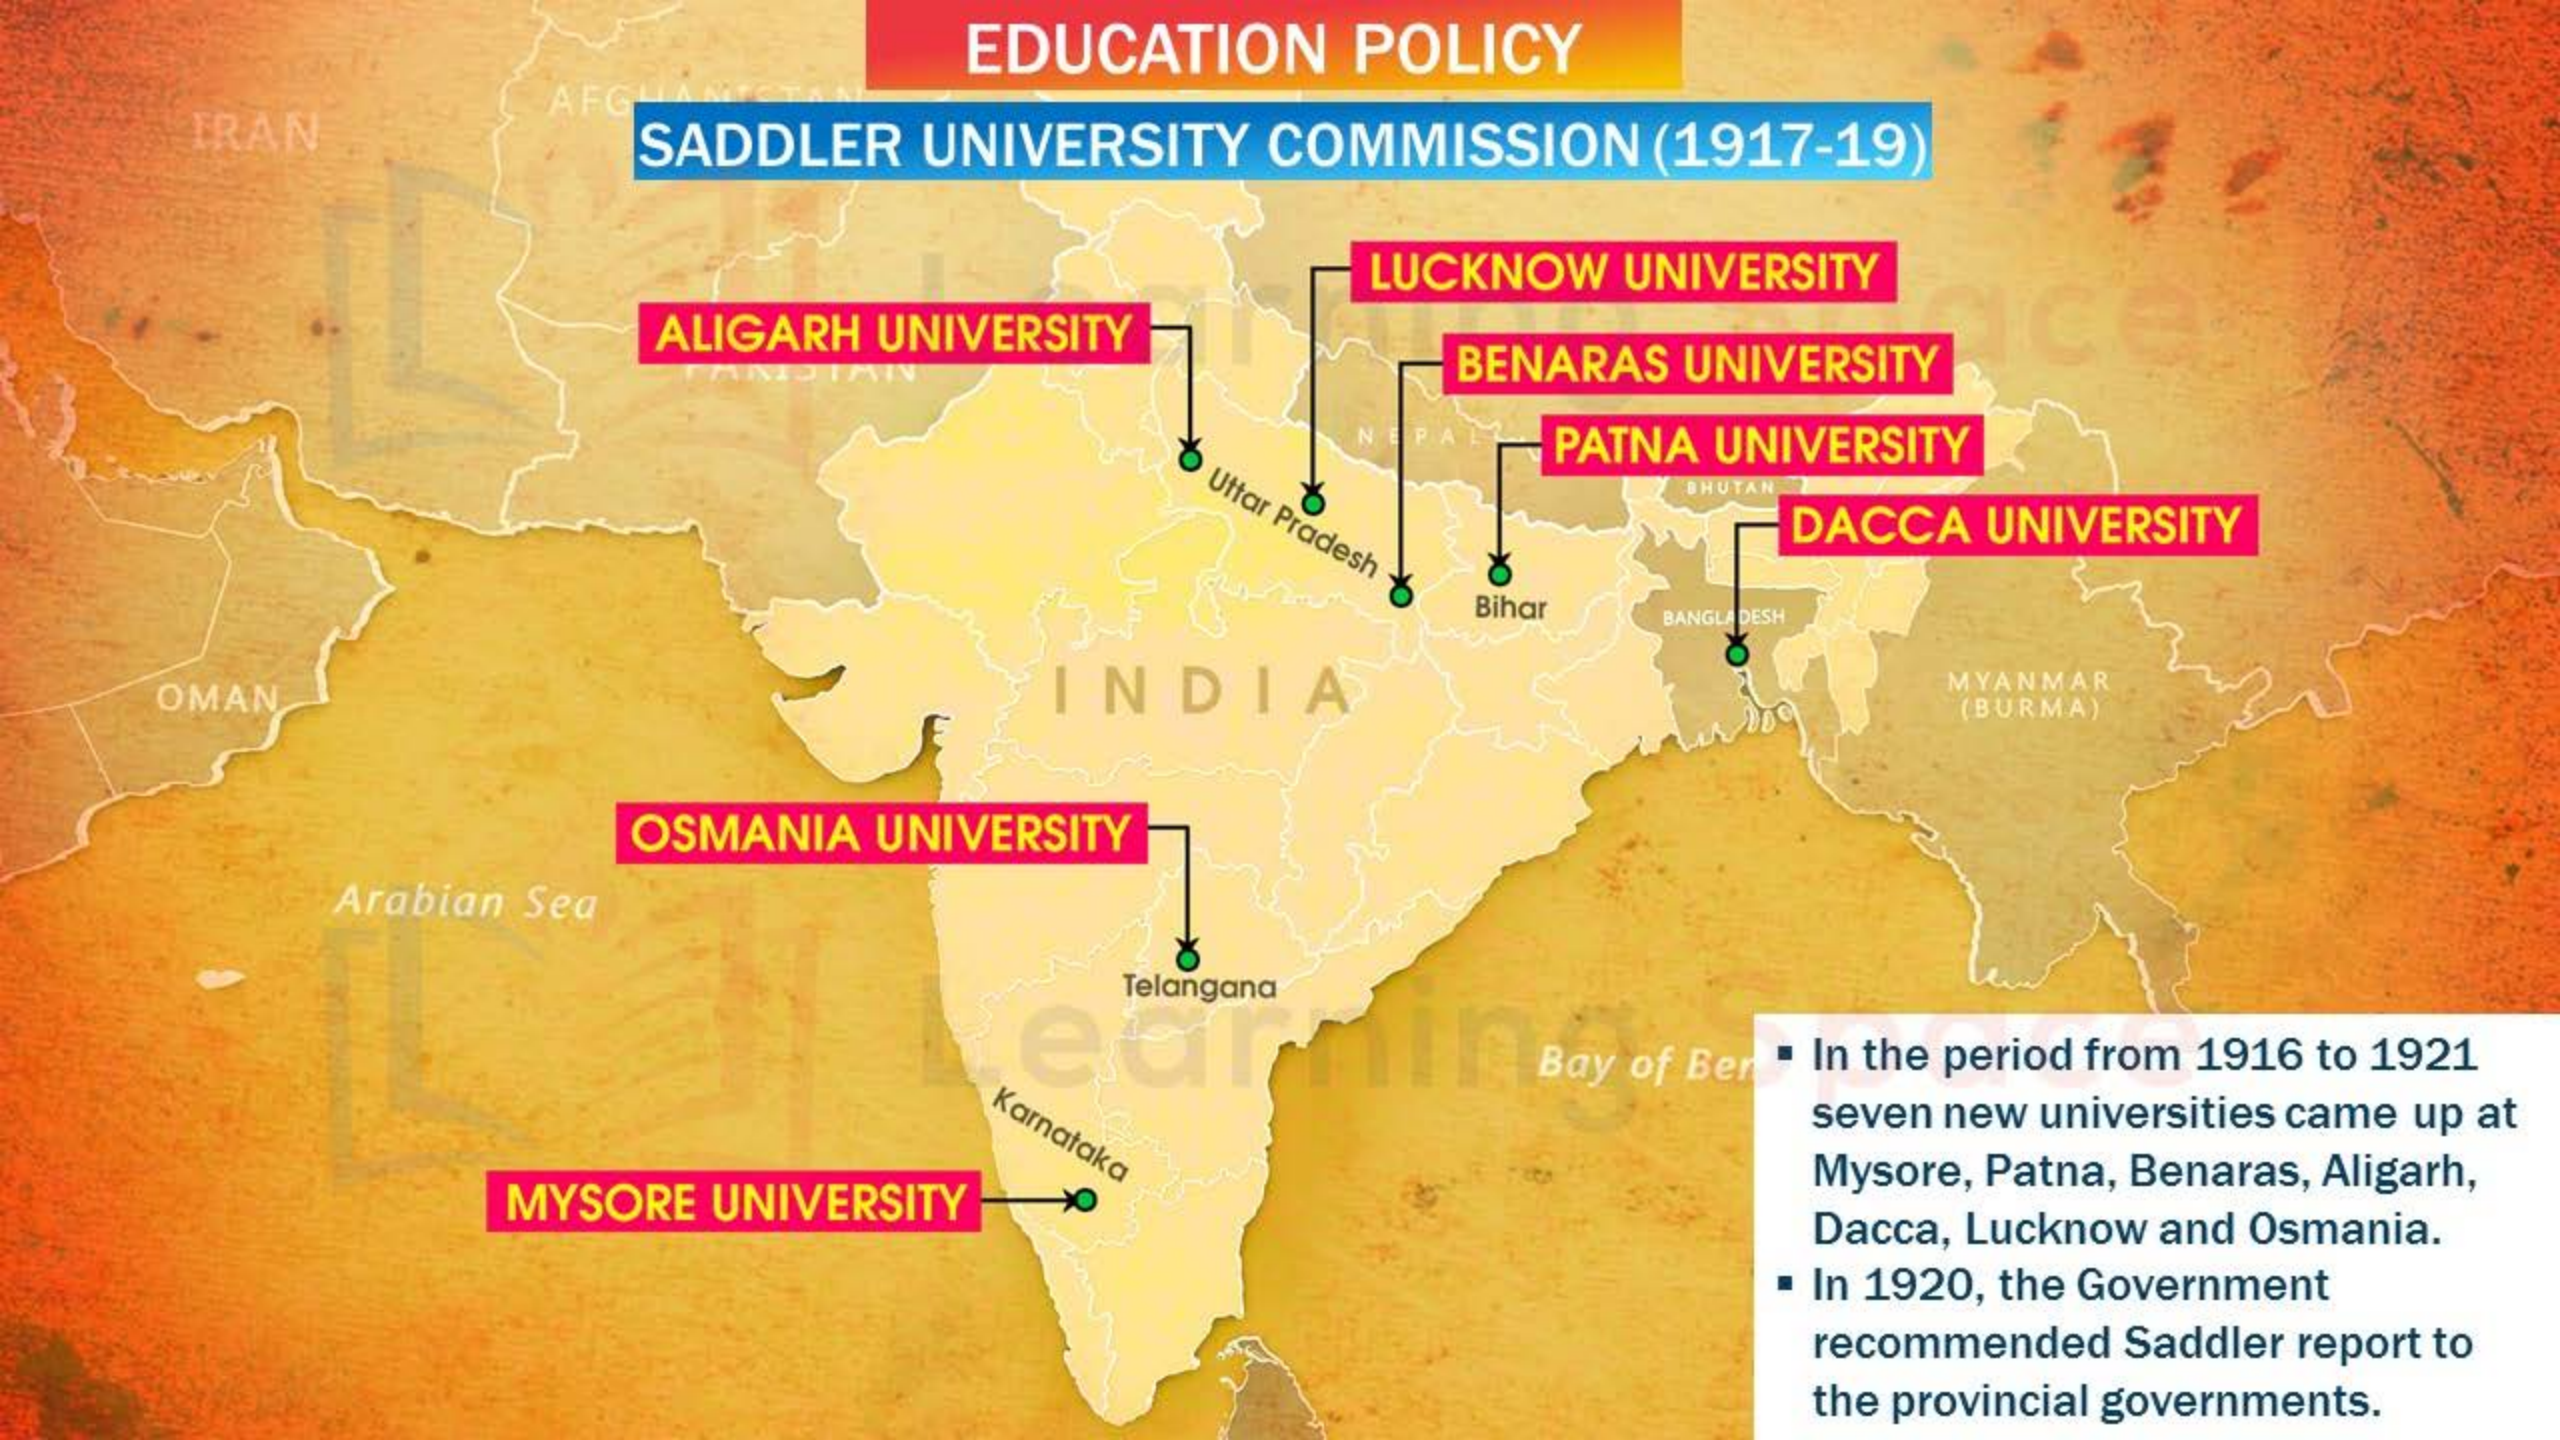

To study and report on problems of Calcutta University.

But its recommendations were holistic ranging from school education to university education.

EDUCATION POLICY

SADDLER UNIVERSITY COMMISSION (1917-19)

ALIGARH UNIVERSITY

LUCKNOW UNIVERSITY

BENARAS UNIVERSITY

PATNA UNIVERSITY

DACCA UNIVERSITY

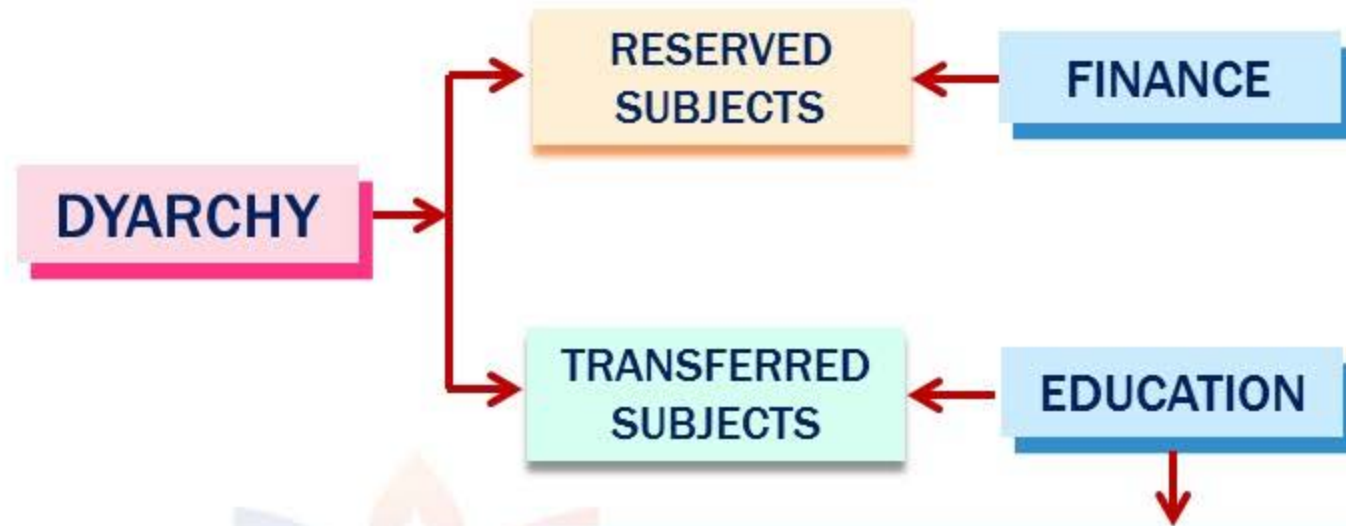

OSMANIA UNIVERSITY

MYSORE UNIVERSITY

- In the period from 1916 to 1921 seven new universities came up at Mysore, Patna, Benaras, Aligarh, Dacca, Lucknow and Osmania.
- In 1920, the Government recommended Saddler report to the provincial governments.

EDUCATION POLICY

EDUCATION UNDER DYARCHY, 1919

Under Montagu-Chelmsford reforms education was shifted to provincial ministries

ISSUE WITH DYARCHY SYSTEM IN EDUCATION

- Education was under Transferred subject but finance was under Reserved subject.
- Thus due to paucity of funds, education growth was not possible.
- It led to the disappointment and dissatisfaction among the nationalists.

But still education grew, specially under philanthropic efforts, nationalist leaders and various social organizations.

EDUCATION POLICY

CRITICAL EVALUATION

POSITIVE ASPECT

Modern education made Indians aware of profound achievements of modern west in sphere of scientific and social scientific knowledge.

- Exposed Indians to modern thought.
- Provided channels through which principle of rationalism, liberty, individualism, democracy made their way into Indian minds.

These principles were instrumental in giving birth to new consciousness which subsequently led to

- growth of anti-imperialistic sentiments and national struggle on one hand and
- Urge to reform socio-cultural fabric on other hand.

British laid the foundation of modern education system in India by providing systematic structure to education system
