WHY EUROPEANS WERE KEEN TO FIND ALTERNATE ROUTE?

UNEXPECTED CONSEQUENCES OF EXPLORATION

POWER STRUGGLE:

- With the age of exploration there was constant conflict for land and cultures.

TRANSMISSION OF DISEASES:

- Unknowingly they spread diseases by travelling all over the world.

1 SPIRIT OF RENAISSANCE

Renaissance means rebirth or re-awakening.

It is that period of history of Europe which characterized by a surge in inquisitive thoughts, rational thinking, finding and exploring new ideas, discovering new places.

Spirit of renaissance coincided with age of exploration which motivated the sailors to venture out to new areas.

ADVANCEMENTS MADE IN SHIP BUILDING

- Facilitated adventurous sea voyages and made them capable of staying in sea for longer time.
- New ship were easy to maneuver and can even sail into wind. So sailing became easier.
- Technological advancement aided in navigation

LONG AND EXPENSIVE OVER LAND ROUTE

- Overland route was long and expensive. Goods were taxed all along the way. And by the time it reached Europe, the product became expensive.
- This made them to abort overland route and look for oversea trade route.

WHY EUROPEANS WERE KEEN TO FIND ALTERNATE ROUTE?

6 PATRONAGE BY ROYAL PRINCES

For example, Prince Henry of Portugal, nicknamed “navigator” began investing in navigation.

7 RELIGION OBJECTIVE

- Muslims - Arabs and Turks were traditional enemies of Christianity, and were posing a new threat to Europe by virtue of growing military and naval power.
- They hoped that by their exploration of Africa they would be able to be in a position to attack the Muslims from two sides i.e. from Arabian sea and Mediterranean sea.
- A direct sea-link with India would displace the virtual monopoly of the Arabs and Turks over trade in eastern goods, especially spices

Thus, the commercial and religion objectives justified and supported each other.
