SWARAJISTS

- To expose the weakness of assemblies
- Use councils as a platform for political struggle and obstruct the working of council if Government does not respond
- To deter government from bringing in undesirable elements in the council.
- They believe that Council work would enthuse the masses and keep up their morale.

THUS OPENING A NEW FRONT AGAINST STRUGGLE

NO-CHANGERS

- Continuation of boycott and non-cooperation.
- Concentrate on constructive work
- Prepare the people for next stage of struggle i.e civil disobedience
- Parliamentary work would lead to neglect of constructive work, loss of revolutionary zeal and protect leader from possible political corruption

EVENTS DURING (1923 - 1926)

SWARAJISTS

1923

SWARAJIST MANIFESTO FOR ELECTION

strongly anti-imperialist

exposed

Selfish interests is the guiding motive of British to govern India.

Reforms are just to neutralize Indians and further their interest of exploitation of the unlimited resources of the country by keeping Indians permanently in a subservient position to Britain

Aim of the council entry

Present the demand of self-government in councils

Wreck the council from within by creating deadlocks on every measure.

If this demand of council are rejected, then they would adopt a policy of uniform, continuous and consistent obstruction within the councils to make governance through councils impossible.

1923 election, Swarajists managed to win 42/141 elected seats

EVENTS DURING (1923 - 1926)

RETURN OF SWARAJ PARTY TO CONGRESS

SWARAJISTS

NO-CHANGERS

Both wanted to avoid 1907 split, as both were aware

- 1) United front is required for mass movement
- 2) United front is required to put pressure on the government
- 3) United front requires Gandhi's leadership

So compromise was reached

Swarajists accepted Congress program except boycott of legislative council.

Gandhi initially opposed the Swarajists proposal of council entry, but afterwards he accepted as he felt opposition to council entry would be counter productive.

EVENTS DURING (1923 - 1926)

SWARAJISTS AND NO CHANGERS

WHY GANDHI INITIALLY OPPOSED THE SWARAJISTS PROPOSAL OF COUNCIL ENTRY?

- He believed in constructive work as it will help in building national consciousness and making the people self-reliant and self-confident.
- It will enable them to stand on their own foot and also make them to fight for their own rights by converting them into 'TRUE SATYAGRAHIS'.
- Also he believed that council entry may become another limb of colonial administration.

WHY GANDHI LATER ACCEPTED THE SWARAJISTS PROPOSAL OF COUNCIL ENTRY?

- In 1923 election, Swarajists managed to win 42/141 elected seats
- This Courageous & uncompromising manner in which Swarajists functioned convinced Gandhi that they would not become another limb of colonial administration.
- Finally in 1924 Belgaum session presided by Gandhi both came to agreement. It was accepted that Swarajists council work was an integral part of Congress.

EVENTS DURING (1923 -1926)

ASSESSMENT OF SWARAJIST

AMENDMENT TO THE RECOMMENDATION OF LEE COMMISSION

Motilal Nehru successfully moved an amendment to recommendation of lee commission

APPOINTMENT OF MUDDIMAN COMMITTEE

Swarajya party forced the appointment of Muddiman committee to enquire the defects act of 1919

DEFEAT OF THE PUBLIC SAFETY BILL IN 1928

A noteworthy achievement was the defeat of this bill which aimed at empowering the Government to deport undesirable and subversive foreigners

Public Safety Bill in 1928 — Government was alarmed by the spread of socialist and communist ideas and believed that a crucial role was being played by the British and other foreign activists being sent by the Comintern.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORMS

EVOLUTION OF CIVIL SERVICES REFORMS

VISCOUNT LEE COMMISSION (1924)

RECOMMENDATION

The secretary of state should continue to recruit officers of services- ICS, Indian Engineers service (IES)(Irrigation branch), Indian Forest Service(IFS), etc.

The recruitments for the transferred fields like education and civil medical service be made by provincial governments

- Public Service Commission should be immediately established (as laid down in the Government of India Act, 1919)
- Later it was established in 1926.

Direct recruitment to ICS on basis of 50:50 parity between the Europeans and the Indians be reached in 15 years;

Lord Birkenhead (secretary of state for India) said that action would be taken on the basis of majority report. But Motilal Nehru stood by his earlier resolution and asked for summoning of Round table conference to discuss reforms leading up to the responsible government

ACHIEVEMENTS OF SWARAJIST

They out-voted the government several times, even on matters relating to budgetary grants, and passed adjournment motions.

They agitated through powerful speeches on self government, civil liberties and industrialisation.

They successfully secured economic benefits such as abolition of cotton excise duty, reduction in salt duty etc

They fought for the repeal of defective and repressive laws and also for the improvement of working condition labour and protection of trade union.

They filled the political vacuum at a time when the national movement was recouping its strength.

They exposed the hollowness of the Montford scheme.

They demonstrated that the councils could be used creatively. Vithalbhai Patel was elected speaker of Central Legislative Assembly in 1925.

They also got the support of independents like Jinnah and other liberals.

DIVISION WITHIN THE SWARAJIST

Swarajist position had weakened due to split on communal and ideological lines.

EVENTS DURING (1923 - 1926)

DRAWBACKS OF SWARAJIST

Wrecking the council from within (obstructionist strategy) has its limitations

Lack of coordination and conflicting ideas in coalition parties like Swarajya party, Liberal party, Jinnah created deadlock situation which further limited their effectiveness.

They failed to support the peasants' cause in Bengal and lost support among Muslim members who were pro-peasant.

They failed to resist the perks and privileges of power and office.

The Swarajists failed to coordinate their activities inside legislatures with the mass struggle outside. They relied totally on newspaper reporting to communicate with the public.

EVENTS DURING (1923 - 1926)

SWARAJISTS

WHY SWARAJISTS FADED OUT?

Swarajists lost the support of many Muslims when the party did not support the tenant's cause against the zamindars in Bengal (most of the tenants were Muslims). In this way Communal interests entered the party.

The death of C.R. Das in 1925 weakened it further.

C. R. DAS
(President)

In 1930, the Swarajists finally walked out as a result of the Lahore Congress resolution on purna swaraj and the beginning of the Civil Disobedience Movement.

EVENTS DURING (1923 - 1926)

CONSTRUCTIVE WORK BY NO-CHANGERS

Due to the constructive work No-Changers were connected to the different sections of the society. The constructive workers served as the backbone of civil disobedience as active organizers.

Popularized the use of charkha and khadi.

National schools and colleges were set up where students were trained in a non-colonial ideological framework.

Ashrams sprang up among tribals and lower castes (especially in Kheda and Bardoli areas of Gujarat).

Significant work was done for

- Hindu-Muslim unity,
- Removing untouchability,
- boycott of foreign cloth and liquor,
- Flood relief.

EVALUATION OF CONSTRUCTIVE WORK BY NO-CHANGERS

Popularising Khadi and Charkha was a difficult task, since it was costlier than the imported cloth.

- National education benefited the urban lower middle classes and the rich peasants only.
- Enthusiasm for national education was there during the movement only. After the movement, most of them went back to official schools and colleges in lure of degrees and jobs.

Though they Campaigned about the social aspect of untouchability, but no emphasis was laid on the economic grievances of the landless and agricultural laborers comprising mostly the untouchables.

Although the Swarajists and the No-changers worked in their separate ways, they kept on best of terms with one another and were able to unite whenever the time was ripe for a new political struggle.
