ANGLO-FRENCH WAR

BACKGROUND

Traditional rivals

- 100 year war between 2 rival families
- Both have an ambition of colonizing the territories
- Both want Colonization of north America
- The Austrian War of Succession.

In INDIA

- It is extension of traditional rivalry.
- Carnatic became the battle ground.
- Rivalry in the form of 3 battles of Carnatic once for all decided who would be masters of India

CARNATIC

Carnatic is name given by the Europeans to the Coromandel coast and its hinterland.

Commercial and maritime conflict between France and England was the primary reason behind these wars. On Indian soil both were fighting to establish their monopoly in trade.

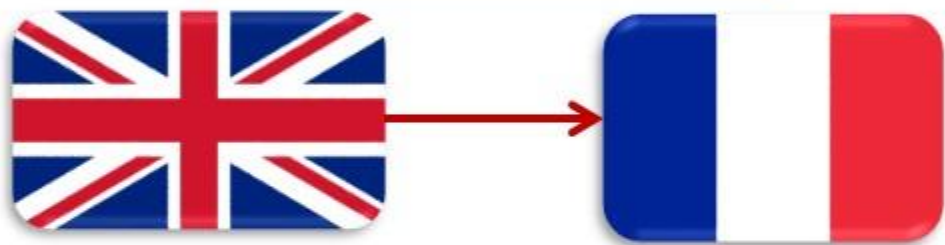

ANGLO-FRENCH WAR

STRUGGLE FOR SUPREMACY

FIRST CARNATIC WAR (1744-48)

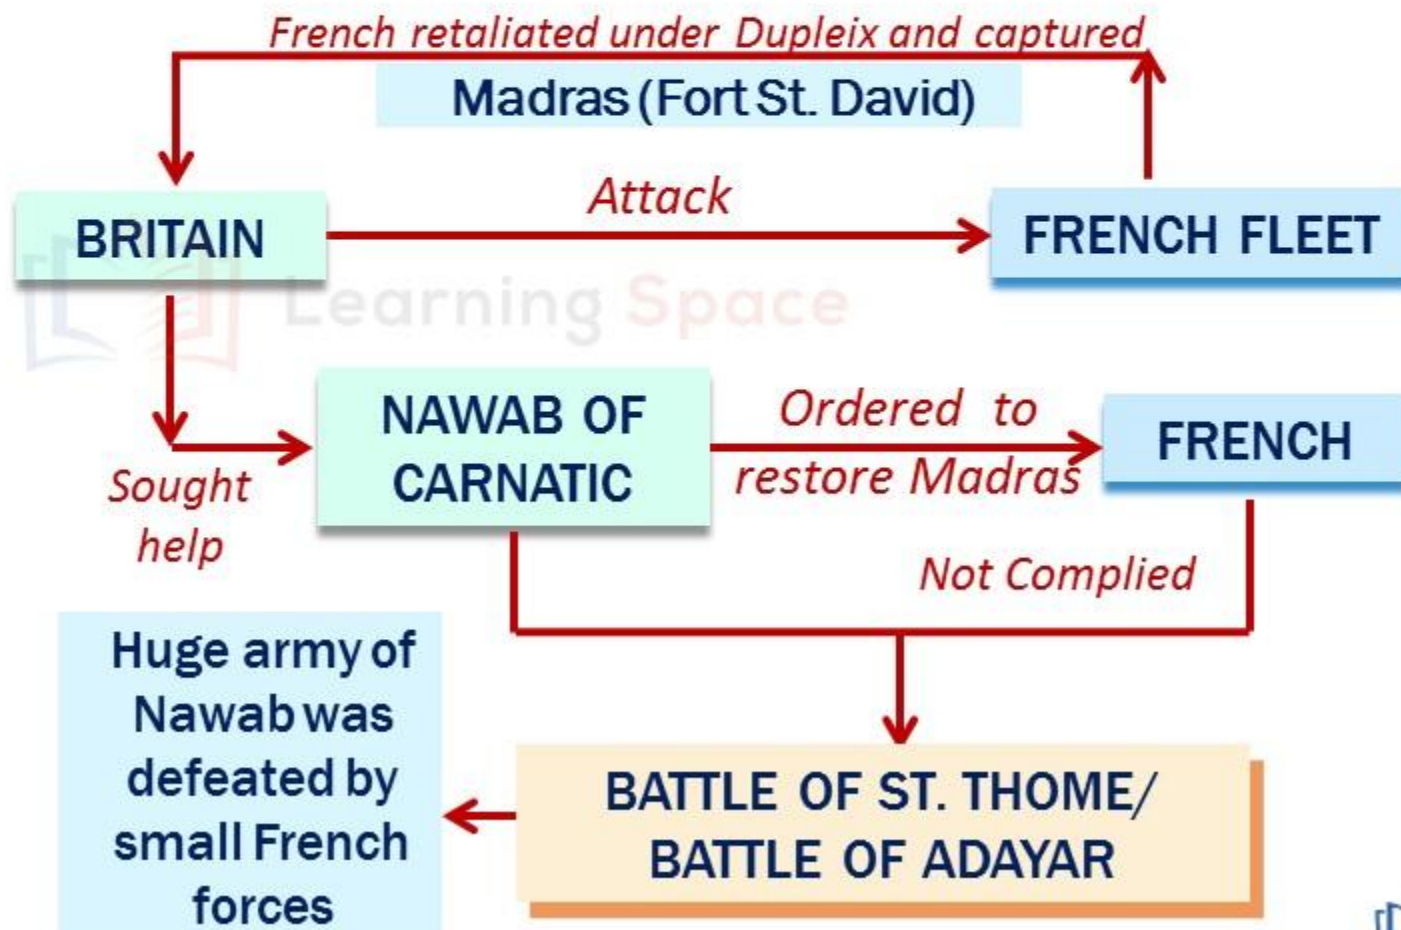

BACKGROUND

EXTERNAL REASONS

In Europe there was war of Austrian succession in 1740. In India, First Carnatic War was extension of this war.

COURSE OF THE BATTLE

THEORY

FIRST CARNATIC WAR (1744-48)

COURSE OF THE BATTLE

- 1 France and Britain were on opposite sides of the stage at the War of Austrian Succession that had broken out in Europe in 1740.
- 2 In India, 1745, there was a naval attack on a French fleet by Britain
- 3 Dupleix, defended and captured Madras, which was controlled by the English.
- 4 English sought help from Nawab of Carnatic Anwaruddin Khan.
- 5 Nawab asked the French to return Madras to the British.
- 6 Dupleix did not comply with Nawab's order and later he tried convincing the Nawab that Madras would be handed over to him at a later stage.
- 7 But Dupleix failed to keep up his words so Nawab sent a huge army to fight the French forces. This army was defeated by the relatively small number of French forces.

FIRST CARNATIC WAR (1744-48)

END OF THE BATTLE

TREATY OF AIX-LA-CHAPELLE

- Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle ended the war in Europe and this also restored peace in India.
- Under terms of treaty, Madras was restored to the English and Quebec (Canada) restored to France.

CRITICAL ANALYSIS

- This war revealed that even a small disciplined army could easily defeat a much larger Indian army
- Defeat of forces of Nawab of Carnatic gave confidence to French about their military supremacy.
- It brought out the importance of naval force

ANGLO-FRENCH WAR

STRUGGLE FOR SUPREMACY

SECOND CARNATIC WAR (1749-54)

BACKGROUND

INTERNAL REASONS

With the Victory in First Carnatic war, French governor Dupliex, sought to increase his power by interfering in local dynastic disputes and taking advantage of civil war by installing puppet rulers. During 1750s, there was civil war in two provinces Hyderabad and Carnatic (Arcot).

- Dupleix was appointed as governor of all the Mughal territories south of Krishna river.
- French army under Bussy was stationed in Hyderabad

Dupleix was the first European to initiate the policy of taking part in the quarrels of Indian princes with a view to acquire territories

4 DISTRICTS OF COROMANDAL COAST

THEORY

SECOND CARNATIC WAR (1749-54)

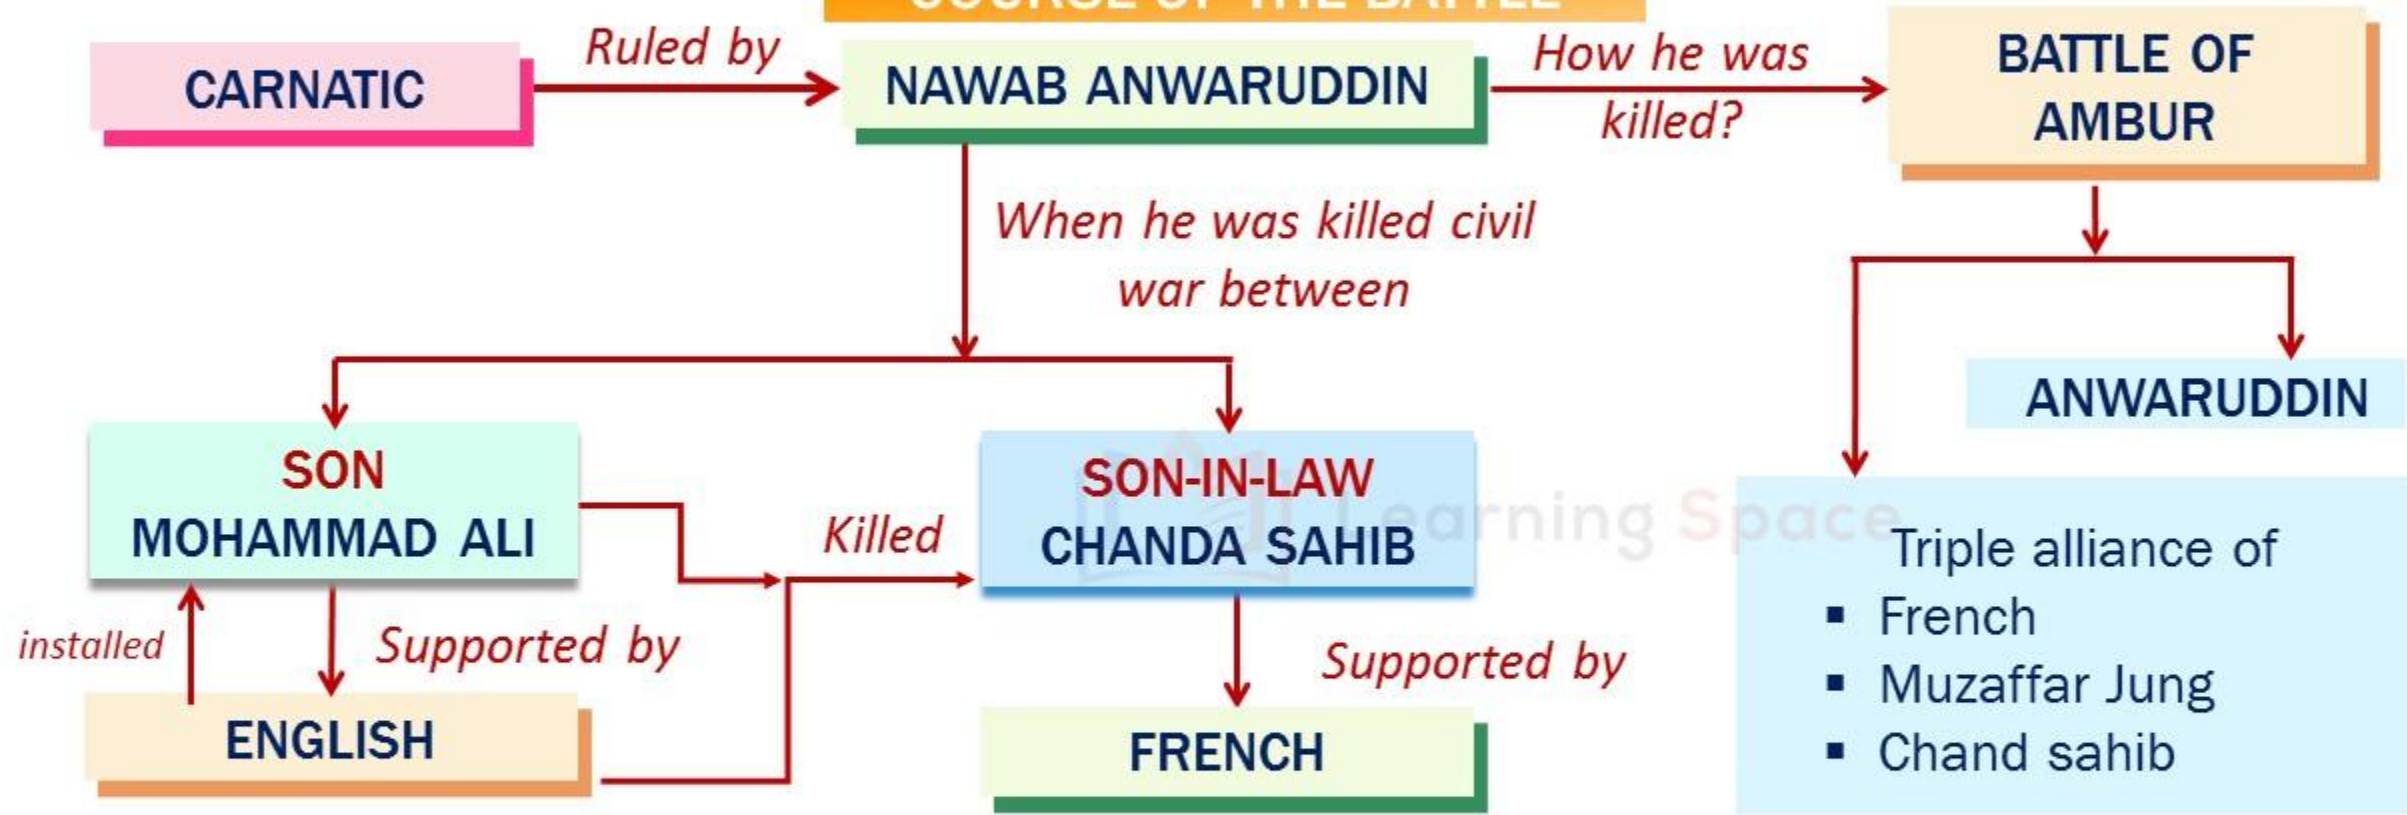

COURSE OF THE BATTLE- HYDERABAD

- 1 In Hyderabad, when Nizam of Asaf Jah I died there was civil war for the throne. On the other side, in Carnatic, Chanda Sahib (son-in-law of Nawab) began to conspire against the Nawab Anwaruddin.
- 2 France saw an opportunity. Dupleix supported Nizam's grandson Muzaffar Zung for Hyderabad and Chanda Sahib for Carnatic. Thus, a tripartite understanding between French, Muzaffar Zang and Chanda Sahib developed.
- 3 On the other hand, British supported Nasir Zung for Hyderabad and Muhammad Ali for Arcot.
- 4 In Hyderabad, French army attacked Nasir Zung and killed him. Thus, it appeared that both British protégés were defeated and Dupleix dream was about to come true.
- 5 However, soon, French protégé Muzaffar Zung was killed. French quickly put his nominee Salabat Zang on throne. In return Nizam of Hyderabad gave them four rich districts of the Coromandel Coast known as the Northern Sircar.

SECOND CARNATIC WAR (1749-54)

COURSE OF THE BATTLE

RESULT

Arcot was seized in 1751 and Mohammad Ali was made Nawab. In Carnatic, English established their dominance

THEORY

SECOND CARNATIC WAR (1749-54)

COURSE OF THE BATTLE- CARNATIC

- 1 In Carnatic, Initially, the three allies killed Nawab Anwaruddin of Carnatic in BATTLE OF AMBUR.
- 2 French installed Chanda Sahib to the throne.
- 3 Mohammad Ali fled to Trichinopoly.
- 4 Later, English under Robert Clive planned for surprise attack on Arcot (capital of Carnatic) to divert pressure on Trichinopoly as French protégé was installed.
- 5 British and Mohammad Ali alliance executed Chanda Sahib and made Mohammad Ali as Nawab of Arcot / Carnatic.
- 6 This Siege of Arcot / Carnatic (1751) was a heroic feat. It had made Clive a national hero in England. The Prime Minister Pitt, the elder described him as "heaven-born general.
- 7 In Carnatic, English established their dominance.

SECOND CARNATIC WAR (1749-54)

END OF THE BATTLE

TREATY OF PONDICHERRY

- War ended with this treaty in 1755 and by this both countries agreed not to interfere in quarrels of Indian princes.
- After the war, Dupleix was recalled to France.

CRITICAL ANALYSIS

- Both were fighting for commercial supremacy and not merely because of their traditional rivalry.
- According to historians, the fear of serious repercussions in America prompted the French to suspend hostilities in India.

THIRD CARNATIC WAR (1758-63)

END OF THE BATTLE

TREATY OF PARIS

- Seven Years war in Europe ended with Treaty of Paris.
- As per this treaty, Chandranagore and Pondicherry was returned to France.

CRITICAL ANALYSIS

- With Battle of Wandiwash French were now mere reduced to trading ports.
- On the other side it highlighted that Native rulers lacked sensitivity to geopolitics of the day as well as a lacked foresight and vision.
- Irrespective of which side won, there was an inevitability about the fall of India to European invaders.

Third Carnatic War put an end to the French ambitions to create a colonial empire in India.
